BRITISH ASK 'TOOLS TO WIN'

Churchill Says A. E. F. Is Not Needed; Fleet Shells Genoa

ITALIAN NAVAL PORT AND SHIP WORKS BLASTED

Attackers Hurl 300 Tons of Missiles.

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—A British Armada, sweeping daringly into a close corner of Italy's Mediterranean coast, poured 300 tons of shells at dawn today into the great Italian port of Genoa, the admiralty announced.

Vice Admiral Somerville.

Prime Minister Churchill called it a "shattering" bombardment "of the naval base from which perhaps a Nazi German expedition might soon have sailed to attack [French] Gen. Weygand in Algeria or Tunis."

To reach Genoa, the British had to sail past Sardinia and Corsica into an arm of the Mediterranean, the Ligurian sea, many miles from British bases at either Gibraltar or Malta. Genoa is the site of big merchant marine and naval construction works.

Fleet Backed by Planes.

To carry out this assignment in the innermost waters of the sea which Italians call "ours," the British called on some of their finest and mightiest fighting ships—a fleet of about 100,000 tons—backed up by naval planes.

They sent the 31,100 ton battleship Malaya, the 32,000 ton battle cruiser Renown, the 22,000 ton aircraft carrier Ark Royal, and the 9,100 ton cruiser Sheffield "with light forces in company." The force was led by Vice Admiral Sir James Somerville.

These ships sailed into the corner of the Italian coast at the very top of the boot, about 600 miles on a straight line from the toe, and, the admiralty said, laid down a sea and air barrage "even more successful than at first thought." [The Renown and Malaya fire 15 inch shells.]

Attack Leghorn and Pisa.

Against wholesale damage which it reported at Genoa, at the port of Leghorn farther down the coast, and the railway junction of Pisa, it reported only one British casualty, a Swordfish torpedo carrying plane missing.

"The Ansaldo electric works and Ansaldo boiler works were heavily hit and large fires started," the admiralty communique said, listing the damage. Ansaldo is a large naval and merchant shipbuilding yard.

"The main power station of the port, which also supplies power for railways, was severely damaged and set on fire.

"Many hits also were made on drydocks and on warehouses and on harbor works surrounding the inner harbor. Here, too, considerable fires broke out.

"The main oil fuel installations and oil tanks were repeatedly hit as were a number of supply ships and main freight yards of the railway."

Oil Refinery a Target.

At Leghorn, it said, naval aircraft dumped "several tons of bombs and a large number of incendiaries on . . . one of the largest and most important oil plants in Italy," the refinery of the A. N. I. C.

British bombs also fell on the railway junction at Pisa, the admiralty said, where the main Italian west coast railroad from Genoa to Rome intersects the line across the peninsula from Leghorn to the Adriatic ports of Bologna and Venice. Two Italian planes tried to interfere, the communique added, and "were shot down."

Italians Refuse Confirmation.

ROME, Feb. 9 (AP).—Italian officials declined tonight to confirm or deny British reports that Genoa had been shelled.

Sharp Quake Rocks Tokio; Three Killed in Factory

TOKIO, Feb. 10, Monday (AP).—Three persons were killed and 15 injured Sunday when the roof of a large factory collapsed during a short, sharp earthquake which was felt thruout the Tokio and Yokohama districts. No other damage was reported.

FEW NAZIS HERE, BULGARIA CLAIMS

Makes Reply to Churchill Danger Warning.

(Map on page 7.)

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Feb. 10, Monday (AP).—Official Bulgarian quarters declared early today, in answer to the speech of Britain's prime minister, Winston Churchill, that the only German soldiers now in Bulgaria are a few officers and men who for a long time have been training the Bulgarian army to use equipment sold by Germany. Bulgarian forces are almost entirely equipped with German material.

[Churchill in his broadcast yesterday said Germany's expected southward movement into or thru Bulgaria perhaps has already begun and that airfields are being occupied by German ground personnel "numbering thousands, so far as to enable the German air force to come into action from Bulgaria."]

Usually reliable political quarters said a special soviet envoy had arrived at Sofia to discuss the question of passage of German troops thru Bulgaria.

Wants to Learn Position.

The envoy was reported to be Arkady A. Sobolé, secretary general of the Russian foreign office, who visited Sofia last November for conferences with King Boris and Premier Bogdan Philoff. He was understood to be sounding out the Bulgarian government's position.

Russia's position has not been clarified except for a recent denial by Tass, Russian news agency, that the soviets had approved German passage thru Bulgaria.

[A report received in Jugo-Slavia said four soviet officers had arrived at Sofia by plane. Further details and confirmation were lacking in Belgrade.]

Ultimatum May Come Soon.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 9.—Reliable reports, from Bulgaria today said that a German ultimatum on Sofia demanding the right of passage of troops to attack Salonika, Greece, is not likely to be delayed more than two weeks, and may well come within a few days.

The unexpected fall of Bengazi, Libya, has alarmed the Germans, it was said, giving rise to the fear British troops may be available to counter Nazi Balkan invasion plans sooner than they had expected.

The Turkish press today urged Bulgaria to "think well" before deciding to run the risk of immediate air attack by the British air force.

Altho Britain and America were urged to give Bulgaria all possible guarantees to encourage resistance to Germany, observers expressed the opinion that there is little hope of Bulgaria doing so.

The German colony here is showing signs of nervousness about its safety if and when Turkey has to move to defend its "security zone" in Bulgaria and Greece.

The British conquests in Libya have caused tremendous enthusiasm thruout Turkey and the Moslem world generally.

Darlan Named Second Man in Petain Regime; Flandin Out

(Picture on page 9.)

VICHY, France, Feb. 9 (AP).—Admiral Jean Darlan, commander of the French navy, emerged tonight from a week of intense political jockeying between German held Paris and unoccupied France as the new No. 2 man in the French government.

Chief of State Petain shook up his cabinet by accepting the resignation of Pierre-Etienne Flandin, foreign minister since Dec. 14, and naming Admiral Darlan vice premier and foreign minister.

Petain also kept Darlan in his old post of navy minister, to which the veteran "admiral of France" was appointed last June, before France's fall.

Frequent Trips to Paris.

Thus Darlan succeeds Pierre Laval—almost two months after Laval's ouster—as the second man in the Vichy régime. Darlan recently has commuted often to Paris for conferences there with Laval looking to Laval's possible reëntry into the Vichy government.

Laval decided only yesterday not to take Petain's offer to make him minister of state and member of a projected triumvirate which would assume broad powers under the marshal.

The announcement of the changes came in a flurry of communiques and official explanations which made these points:

1. Flandin resigned because his mission of continuing collaboration was impeded by the opposition of German authorities and Paris newspapers, which supported Laval.

2. Flandin resigned for the "health of the fatherland and to facilitate Petain's heavy task."

Flandin was appointed foreign minister the day after Laval was dropped from the Vichy government at a stormy session with Marshal Petain and the cabinet.

"Retreat" by Germans.

Political circles expressed belief the Germans had withdrawn from their insistence that Laval be returned to his old posts of vice premier and foreign minister. These same sources said they believed the Germans would deal with Darlan as well as with Laval and that the Germans felt their position would suffer if Laval were thrust into the government against the wishes of Petain and the French people.

[There are many Frenchmen who despise Laval, considering him the foremost German spokesman among the French people.]

"Confusion" in French Africa.

MADRID, Feb. 9 (AP).—The Spanish press displayed today a dispatch from Rabat, French Morocco, saying that all of French North Africa would find it difficult to resist joining "free French" forces if Germany occupied all of France. The dispatch, transmitted by E. F. E., official Spanish news agency, said that "confusion" was growing in French North Africa and that it had been "systematically exploited" by the British and propagandists for the "free French" leader, Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Gen. Maxine Weygand, commander of French North African forces which remain loyal to Chief of State Petain, was said by this Spanish dispatch to be an open enemy of Pierre Laval, leading exponent of French-German collaboration, and is resolved to support Petain. The progress of the British offensive in Libya toward Tripoli and the border of French Tunisia was said to have impressed greatly the population of French Morocco, Tunisia, and Algeria.

Charcoal Gas a Success; Bar Gasoline for Finns

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 9.—Two thousand American automobiles, trucks, and buses equipped with charcoal gas generating devices have given excellent performances on their new fuel and beginning with Feb. 15 all gasoline rations will be discontinued in Finland. On that date gasoline will be provided only for physicians, ambulances, fire chiefs, and diplomats. Special arrangements have been made to help taxi drivers buy gas generators, which cost from $300 to $600.

TEXT OF SPEECH.

The text of Prime Minister Churchill's speech appears on Pages 4 and 5.

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared tonight in a world radio address that if the United States gave Great Britain the tools, she would finish the job of defeating Adolf Hitler without the help of an American expeditionary force.

Winston Churchill.

On this point Churchill was emphatic. American aid in the form of supplies now seems assured, he said, to clinch a British victory.

"In the last war the United States sent 2,000,000 men across the Atlantic, but this is not a war of vast armies, hurling immense masses of shells at one another," the prime minister declared. "We do not need the gallant armies which are forming thruout the American union. We do not need them this year nor next year nor any year that I can foresee."

Calls for More Ships.

But Britain does need "an immense and continuous supply of war materials" and to get them needs more shipping facilities, he said.

After a happy description of British successes in Africa and the defense work at home, he expressed fear that German invasion of Bulgaria "perhaps has already begun," and said it was difficult to convince Bulgaria it would be on the losing side with Germany.

"We may be sure," he went on, "that the war is soon going to enter upon a phase of greater violence. Hitler's confederate, Mussolini, has reeled back in Albania. But the Nazis, having absorbed Hungary and driven Rumania into a frightful internal convulsion, are already upon the Black sea.

"A considerable German army and air force is being built up in Rumania, and its forward tentacles have already penetrated Bulgaria with what we must suppose is the acquiescence of the Bulgarian government. Air fields are being occupied by German ground personnel numbering thousands, so as to enable the German air force to come into action from Bulgaria.

Resist, He Tells Balkans.

"Many preparations have been made for the movement of German troops into or thru Bulgaria. And perhaps this southward movement has already begun."

If all the Balkan people, aided by Britain and Turkey, stood together, he declared, "it would be many months before a German army and air force of sufficient strength to overcome them could be assembled in the southeast of Europe."

"And in those months," he added grimly, "much might happen. Much will certainly happen as American aid becomes effective, as our air power grows."

The Italian defeats in Libya, he declared, are "only part of the story," adding:

"They are only part of the story of the decline and fall of the Italian empire. That will not take a future Gibbon so long to write as the original work."

[It took Edward Gibbon nearly 15 years to write "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire."]

Invasion "Greatest Issue."

Churchill declared "the greatest issue" still was the threat of an attempt to invade England in the near future, and warned:

"An invasion now will be supported by a much more carefully prepared tackle and equipment . . . we must be prepared to meet gas attacks, parachute attacks, glider attacks, with constancy, forethought, and practiced skill."

He declared he was confident Britain would "outfight and outlast the worst the enemy can contrive."

TELLS OF F. D. R.'S LETTER; WILLKIE, HOPKINS VISITS

Prime Minister Winston Churchill in his broadcast yesterday devoted special attention to the visits of Wendell Willkie and Harry L. Hopkins, President Roosevelt's personal envoy, to England. He said:

"Distinguished Americans have come over to see things here at the front and to find out how the United States can help us best and soonest. In Mr. Hopkins who has been my frequent companion during the last three weeks, we have the envoy of the President, the President who has been newly reëlected to his august office.

"In Mr. Wendell Willkie we have welcomed the champion of the great Republican party. We may be sure that they will both tell the truth about what they have seen over here, and more than that we do not ask. The rest we leave with good confidence to the judgment of the President, the congress, and the people of the United States."

Churchill completed his speech by saying:

"The other day President Roosevelt gave his opponent in the late Presidential election a letter of introduction to me, and in it he wrote out a verse in his own handwriting from Longfellow which, he said, 'Applies to you people as it does to us.'

"Here is the verse:

'Sail on, O ship of state;
Sail on, O union strong and great.
Humanity with all its fears,
With all the hopes of future years,
Is hanging breathless on thy fate.'

"What is the answer that I shall give in your name to this great man, the thrice chosen head of a nation of 130,000,000?

"Here is the answer which I will give to President Roosevelt:

"Put your confidence in us. Give us your faith and your blessing, and under Providence all will be well. We shall not fail or falter; we shall not weaken or tire. Neither the sudden shock of battle nor the long drawn trials of vigilance and exertion will wear us down. Give us the tools and we will finish the job."

Senator Brands Talk an Effort to Aid Dictator Bill.

'Old Story,' Says Wood

Gen. Robert E. Wood, national chairman of the America First committee, commenting on the statement in Prime Minister Winston Churchill's speech yesterday that American soldiers are not needed by England, said last night:

"I am delighted to hear him say that—if he means it. But England said that once before."

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], leader of the senate opposition to President Roosevelt's war dictatorship bill, charged tonight that Prime Minister Winston Churchill's broadcast today was designed to promote passage of this measure for unlimited American aid in the war with Germany and Italy. Wheeler said that the speech was "arranged" by Washington and London.

Meanwhile Senator Robert A. Taft [R., Ohio], also a foe of the measure, proposed a series of six amendments, one of which would prohibit American ships from entering war zones. Another would forbid repair of foreign ships in American ports, a third would prevent the President from transferring naval vessels to foreign powers, and a fourth would prohibit the disposal of any defense article until after congress had appropriated money to carry on the aid program.

His Other Proposals.

Taft suggested, too, that "defense articles" sent to warring "democracies" should be limited to those manufactured in this country. Another of his proposed amendments would require that any money collected from nations benefiting under the program be placed in the treasury as miscellaneous receipts instead of being set up as a revolving fund for production of defense materials.

Taft's amendments will be considered by the foreign relations committee after it concludes hearings on the bill.

Churchill's assertion that England does not need our man power "to finish the job" was branded by Wheeler a transparent effort to make it appear that the dispatch of an American expeditionary force to Europe is not one of the purposes of the dictator bill.

War Intentions Suspected.

The suspicion that the administration intends to send our army and navy to Europe, if necessary to conquer Hitler, is the chief source of opposition to the bill. The Montana senator said that all doubt of the administration's intention was removed yesterday when the administration forces in the house rejected the amendment forbidding dispatch of American troops abroad.

"It is only too evident that the Churchill broadcast was arranged by Washington and London in an attempt to disarm opposition to the bill aroused by the prime minister's statement two weeks ago," said Senator Wheeler. "At that time Churchill said that no large armies from overseas would be needed this year, the plain inference being that they would be required next year. He let the cat out of the bag to the embarrassment of the authors of this bill.

"Repairing the Damage."

"Now the prime minister tries to repair the damage and promote the passage of the bill by the senate. His broadcast is quite in line with the appearance of the new ambassador, Lord Halifax, at the capitol last week to lobby for the bill.

"Of course, the answer to Churchill is that if our man power is not needed this bill is not needed. The tools 'to finish the job' can be furnished by America without legislation creating an American dictatorship. But to take the country into the war with our man power this bill is needed."

Both proponents and opponents of the bill were girding today for the great battle over the measure that is

SHERIFF, ARMY AND NAVY RESCUE 2 ADRIFT ON ICE

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 9 [Special],—The army, the navy, and the sheriff of Macomb county participated today in a dramatic rescue of two fishermen adrift on an ice floe in Lake St. Clair.

The men saved were James Sinclair, 40, and Dan Van Denbosche, 58. They first were seen and reported to Sheriff Jacob F. Theut, off shore near Mount Clemens, Mich. The sheriff called army airmen at Selfridge field and asked for help.

Second Lieutenant Robert B. Hubbell flew out over the lake and sighted the men.

Sheriff Theut then informed the naval reserve air base at Grosse Isle of the location of the fishermen. Ensign H. E. McNeely and Machinist's Mate Mac Woodcock landed an amphibian plane near the floe, but could not take the two men aboard since there was not enough room in their ship. They tossed a collapsible rubber raft to Sinclair and Van Denbosche, who rowed to solid ice and made their way to shore. Altho adrift for six hours, they experienced no ill effects.

Paris Population 250,000 Less than Before the War

BERLIN, Feb. 9 (AP).—DNB, the German official news agency, reported from Paris today that the population of the Nazi-occupied French capital is 4,247,957 as reckoned by the number of ration tickets. The decline from a pre-war population of about 4,500,000 was attributed to the departure of foreigners and the removal of some Parisians to the unoccupied area of France.

BRITISH OCCUPY TOWN 180 MILES BEYOND BENGAZI

Seize 7 More Generals, Thousands of Men.

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 9 (AP).—Britain's rapidly advancing army of the Nile, its speed apparently unchecked, reported today it had smashed almost one-third of the way between captured Bengazi and Tripoli, Libya's capital and last major stronghold, seizing seven more generals and uncounted thousands of prisoners.

Gen. Bergonzoli.

Occupation of El Agheila by "advanced elements of our armed forces" while others still were mopping up the battlefields south of Bengazi was reported in a general headquarters communique.

This placed the British vanguards part way around the Gulf of Sidra, about 180 miles southwest of Bengazi, on the tortuous coastal road which crosses 600 miles of desert waste to Tripoli.

El Agheila is a town of about 1,000 population with barracks for carabinieri [police troops], an emergency landing field, and a wireless station. Seat of a district governor, it is only 10 miles from the border of Tripolitania, Libya's westernmost province.

Thousands of Prisoners Taken.

"In addition to an army commander and a corps commander reported as captured," the communique added, "five other senior generals and many thousands of prisoners have been taken."

One of the captive generals was identified as Gen. Annibale [Electric Whiskers] Bergonzoli, Black Shirt corps commander who slipped out of Bardia on the eve of its capture by the British a month ago. He was reported taken at Bengazi.

A total of 19 generals now has been captured by the British. One Italian admiral also has been seized.

Prisoners poured into Bengazi today. To the 112,000 reported captured in previous battles of the campaign, British sources regarded it as conservative to estimate that at least 10,000 would be rounded up in this latest action.

Little Damage in Bengazi.

Altho the Italians fired some supply stores before the British reached Bengazi, the town was understood to have been little damaged. Port facilities were described as serviceable immediately.

Deepening inroads into Italian East Africa also were reported. Despite Fascist reënforcements at Keren, mountain key to the defense of Asmara, capital of Italian Eritrea, British headquarters reported that operations "continue to develop satisfactorily." An Italian counterdrive was reported repulsed with heavy losses to the attackers.

In Ethiopia, a British communique said, "Our progress along the Gondar road has been temporarily slowed up by extensive mine fields which are now being cleared," and in Italian Somaliland "intensive patrol activities have still further deepened the areas of our penetrations."

Expect Graziani to Make Stand.

ROME, Feb. 9 (AP).—Somewhere in the coastal defense zone of Tripolitania, northwest Libya, Marshal Rodolfo Graziani is expected to make a stand against the British with all available forces including troops flown from Italy.

"Is this Graziani's line of action?" asked Italy's topflight military commentator, Giovanni Ansaldo. "We do not know," he answered himself. "But we believe it is."

In East Africa, the high command said, renewed British attacks in the Keren sector of Eritrea and along the Italian Somaliland frontier were repulsed.

BRITISH BOMBERS RAID MANNHEIM, DEEP IN GERMANY

Flushing and Rotterdam Also Attacked.

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—British warplanes again struck deep into Germany last night with an attack on Mannheim, as well as on the Nazi-occupied ports of Flushing and Rotterdam [the Netherlands] in daylight Saturday, it was announced today. Mannheim is a Rhine river shipping center for grain, coal, iron, and oil.

Map locates three cities bombed by British.

The air ministry reported the Mannheim attacks were carried out by a small force of bombers and that the Flushing and Rotterdam attacks were made by planes operating singly.

Twice today, air raid sirens sent London's residents to cover but there were no reports of bombings. The second alarm—the first after dark in five nights—ended before 9 p. m.

Also Over Liverpool Area.

Raiders were reported also over the Liverpool area, East Anglia, and southwest England during the night.

The air ministry said two Spitfires raided the Calais area across the English channel today.

"One shot up an enemy antiaircraft position in a field and machine-gunned troops there and the other raked a ship," it said.

A German bomber, attempting to attack a North sea convoy, was said to have been shot down by antiaircraft fire from an escort warship.

One British plane was reported lost in an attack on Saturday on a convoy of German supply ships off the southern coast of Norway.

The admiralty announced that the trawlers Almond and Arctic Trapper had been sunk.

Claim Bombs Sink 3 Ships.

BERLIN, Feb. 10, Monday (AP).—Nazi long range bombers in an attack on a British convoy in the Atlantic west of Spain were reported by informed Germans to have sunk three merchantmen, caused the loss of three others, and badly damaged an additional three. Three of the vessels, they said, sank instantly. Of the other six reported hit, three were ablaze and their loss was apparent.

WHEELER SAYS CHURCHILL TALK WAS 'ARRANGED'

Brands It an Effort to Aid Dictator Bill.

about to begin in the senate. The senate foreign relations committee will conclude hearings on the bill on Tuesday with the testimony of Wendell Willkie, who returned today from his survey of the situation in Great Britain. The committee then will consider amendments and probably will report its draft of the bill to the senate by the end of this week. The debate in the senate is scheduled to begin a week from tomorrow and continue the remainder of the month.

Senator Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader of the senate, and other administration leaders, predict the passage of the bill by an overwhelming majority and without material change. Opposition leaders are confident that important modifications will be adopted.

Roosevelt's "Standard Plea."

"'To save American democracy, I must have dictatorial powers' is the oft-repeated, standard, but highly successful plea of President Roosevelt," said Senator Wheeler. "With it, he has taken us step by step down the road to one man government. Only once has it failed him, and that when the President of the United States sought to pack the Supreme court, thus to render it subservient to the executive branch of government.

"Today the administration is again rendering lip service to democracy while they destroy our constitutional form of government. The President has demanded the abdication of congress for all practical purposes during the present international crisis—and this loss of representative form of government comes again in the name of preserving American democracy.

Comparison with Dictators.

"The lend-lease or war-dictatorship bill confers peacetime powers upon the President of the United States which are not equaled by the wartime powers of England's Prime Minister Churchill. They are equaled only by the powers of Hitler, Mussolini, and Stalin. The similarity between the Roosevelt lend-lease bill and the Hitler enabling act which destroyed the German Weimar constitution is indeed striking.

"The administration, attempting to becloud the dictatorial powers conferred by this bill, now emphasizes house modifications and amendments. The house did adopt certain meaningless, wishy-washy amendments. The life of the measure is limited to two years. But two minutes, not two years, is all the time required for the President to give to England, to Russia, to Hindustan today, or to Germany tomorrow, all our guns, all our tanks, all our planes, and our entire navy.

"It would not require two years for the President to set aside all social, labor, or farm legislation. Remember, too, that after Hitler received his enabling act, he established a dictatorship in far less than two years.

"Other amendments provide that the President must consult with army and navy officers, who he appoints and who serve at his pleasure, before transferring military or naval equipment. And how utterly meaningless is the amendment requiring the President to report to congress every 90 days on the administration of the act without disclosing the information that he and he alone, regards as prejudicial to the national defense.

"Future policies of the administration can be better judged by the amendments they defeated rather than accepted.

"Amendments to prohibit sending American boys to be plowed under European or African soil were defeated by Roosevelt leaders in the house—this is consistent with the announced purchase by the war department of 4,500,000 identification tags and request for bids on 1,500,000 caskets.

"Mr. Churchill stated over the radio today that he did not need men this year or next year or any other year so far as he could foresee. That isn't what Mr. Churchill said a short time ago.

"If this administration is not going to send men to Europe, why the 4,500,000 tags and why the 1,500,000 caskets?"

CHICAGO WOMAN FINDS THE BURMA ROAD 'CAREFREE'

A Chicago missionary, the first woman to enter China over the Burma road since it was reopened by the British last fall as a munitions supply line and virtually the lifeline of China, described her journey in a letter to the Woman's Baptist Foreign Mission society yesterday. She said it was "as easy and as carefree a trip as I have ever had."

The traveler, Miss Laura Emma Brodbeck, a University of Chicago graduate and sister of Mrs. A. R. Gay, 444 Winneconna parkway, an Englewood High school teacher, journeyed over the road from Rangoon, Burma, to her missionary post at Suifu, China, in Szechuan province. She was returning from a furlough in Chicago and reached Suifu Dec. 21 after covering the last stage of her journey from Luchow by boat.

Miss Anne Thexton, a fellow missionary, accompanied her as far as Luchow, where she became ill.

New York, Feb. 9 [Special].—Orville S. Many of the sponsors of this new group are also associated with the Interventionist Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. McPherson said that the new organization is incorporated in Missouri under the title United Americans.

TEXT OF CHURCHILL ADDRESS PLEDGING BRITAIN TO FINISH JOB OF BEATING NAZIS

GIVE US TOOLS, SHIPS, NOT MEN, PREMIER PLEADS

Invasion Still 'Greatest Issue,' He Says.

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—Following is the text of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's address tonight:

"Five months have passed since I spoke to the British nation and empire in a broadcast. In wartime there is a lot to be said for the motto, 'Deeds not words.' All the same, it is a good thing to look around from time to time and take stock, and certainly our affairs have prospered in several directions during these last four or five months, far better than most of us would have ventured to hope.

"We stood our ground and faced the two dictators in the hour of what seemed their overwhelming triumph, and we have shown ourselves capable so far of standing up against them alone.

"After the heavy defeats of the German air force by our fighters in August and September, Herr Hitler did not dare attempt the invasion of this island, altho he had made vast preparations. Baffled in this grandiose project, he sought to break the spirit of the British nation by the bombing first of London and afterward of our great cities.

"It has now been proved to the admiration of the world and to our friends in the United States that this form of blackmail and murder and terrorism, so far from weakening the spirit of the British nation, has only roused it to a more intense and universal flame than was ever seen before in any modern community.

Empire Proves Its Love.

"The whole British empire has been proud of the mother country, and they long to be with us over here in ever larger numbers. We have been deeply conscious of the love for us which has flown from the dominions of the crown across the broad ocean spaces. There is the first of our war aims: To be worthy of that love and to preserve it.

"All thru these dark winter months the enemy have had the power to drop three or four tons of bombs on us for every ton we could send to Germany in return. We are arranging so that presently this will be rather the other way round. But meanwhile London and our big cities have had to stand a pounding.

"They remind me of the British squares at Waterloo. They are not squares of soldiers. They do not wear scarlet coats. They are just ordinary English, Scottish, and Welsh folks, men, women, and children, standing steadfastly together. But their spirit is the same; their glory is the same, and in the end their victory will be greater than far-famed Waterloo.

"All honor to the civil defense services of all kinds, emergency and regular, volunteer and professional, who have helped our people thru this formidable ordeal, the like of which no civilized community has ever been called upon to undergo.

The Police—"What Gentlemen!"

"If I mention only one of these services tonight—namely, the police—it is because many tributes have been paid already to the others. But the police have been in it everywhere, all the time, and as a working woman wrote to me in a letter, 'What gentlemen they are!'

"More than two-thirds of the winter has now gone, and so far we have had no serious epidemic. Indeed, there is no increase of illness in spite of the improvised conditions of the shelter. That is most creditable to our local medical and sanitary authorities, to our devoted nursing staff, and to the ministry of health, whose head, as you may have seen, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, is going to Canada in the important office of high commissioner.

"There is another thing which surprised me when I asked about it. In spite of all these new wartime defenses and prosecutions of all kinds, in spite of all the opportunities for looting and disorder, there has been less crime this winter and there are now fewer prisoners in our jails than in the years of peace.

"We have broken the back of the winter. The daylight grows. The royal air force grows, and is already certainly master of the daylight air.

"The attacks may be sharper, but they will be shorter. There will be more opportunities for work and service of all kinds, more opportunities for life. So if our first victory was the repulse of the invader, our second was the frustration of his acts of terror and of torture against our people at home.

Mussolini Gets into Trouble.

"Meanwhile, abroad in October, a wonderful thing happened. One of the two dictators, the crafty, cold blooded, black hearted Italian, who had thought to gain an empire on the cheap by stabbing fallen France in the back, got into trouble. Without the slightest provocation, stirred on by lust of power and brutish greed, Mussolini attacked and invaded Greece only to be hurled back ignominiously by the heroic Greek army, who I will say, with your assent, have revived before our eyes the glories which from the classic age gild their native land.

"While Signor Mussolini was writhing and snorting under the Greek lash in Albania, Gens. Wavell and Wilson, who are charged with the defense of Egypt and of the Suez canal in accordance with our treaty obligations, whose task seemed at one time so difficult, had received very powerful reënforcements—reënforcements of men, cannons, equipment, and, above all, tanks, which we had sent them from our island in spite of the invasion threat. And large numbers of troops from India, Australia, and New Zealand had also reached them.

"Forthwith began that series of victories in Libya which have broken irretrievably the Italian military power on the African continent. We have all been entertained, and I trust edified, by the exposure and humiliation of another of what Byron called, 'Those pagan things of sabre-sway with fronts of brass and feet of clay.'

Libyan Victory Brilliant.

"Here, then, in Libya is the third considerable event upon which we may dwell with some satisfaction. It is just exactly two months ago to a day that I was waiting anxiously, but O so eagerly, for the news of the great counterstroke which had been planned against the Italian invaders of Egypt. The secret had been well kept. The preparations had been well made, but to leap across those 70 miles of desert and attack 10 or 11 divisions, equipped with all the appliances of modern war, and who had been fortifying themselves for three months: that was a most hazardous adventure.

"When the brilliant, decisive victory at Sidi Barrani, with its tens of thousands of prisoners, proved that we had quality, manuevering power and weapons superior to the enemy who had boasted so much of his virility and his military virtue, it was evident that all the other Italian forces in eastern Libya were in great danger. They could not easily beat a retreat along the coastal road without running the risk of being caught in the open by our armored divisions and brigades ranging far out into the desert in tremendous swoops and scoops. They had to expose themselves to being attacked piecemeal.

"Gen. Wavell—nay, all our leaders and all their live, active, ardent men, British, Australian, Indian in the imperial army—saw their opportunity. At that time I ventured to draw Gen. Wavell's attention to the seventh chapter of the Gospel of St. Matthew, at the seventh verse, where, as you all know or ought to know, is written, 'Ask and it shall be given; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you.' The army of the Nile has asked and it was given; they sought and they have found; they knocked and it has been opened unto them.

"In barely eight weeks, by a campaign which will long be studied as a model of the military art, an advance of over 400 miles has been made; the whole Italian army in the east of Libya, which was reputed to exceed 150,000 men, has been captured or destroyed; the entire province of Cirenaica, nearly as big as England and Wales, has been conquered; the unhappy Arab tribes who have for 30 years suffered thru the cruelty of Italian rule, carried in some cases to the point of methodical extermination, these Bedouin survivors had at last seen their oppressors in disorderly flight or led off in endless droves as prisoners of war.

"Egypt and the Suez canal are safe. And the port, the base and the airfields of Bengazi constitute a strategic point of high consequence to the whole of the war in the eastern Mediterranean.

"This is the time, I think, to speak of the leaders who, at the head of their brave troops, have rendered this distinguished service to the king. The first and foremost—Gen. Wavell, commander-in-chief of all the armies of the middle east—has proved himself a master of war, sage, painstaking, daring, and tireless. But Gen. Wavell has repeatedly asked that others share his fame.

Tribute to Other Chiefs.

"Gen. Wilson, who actually commands the army of the Nile, was reputed to be one of our finest tacticians, and few will now deny that quality.

"Gen. O'Connor, commanding the 13th corps, with Gen. Mackay, commanding the splendid Australians, and Gen. Creagh, who trained and commanded the various armored divisions which were employed—these three men executed the complicated and astounding erratic movements which were made, and fought the actions which occurred.

"I have just seen a telegram from Gen. Wavell. He wishes to add that the success at Bengazi was due to the outstanding leadership and resolution of O'Connor and Creagh, ably backed by Wilson.

"I must not forget here to point out the amazing mechanical feats of the British tanks, whose design and workmanship have beaten all records and stood up to all trials and show us how closely and directly the work in the factories at home is linked with the victories abroad.

"Of course, none of our plans would have succeeded had not our pilots, under Air Chief Marshal Longmore, wrested the control of the air from a far more numerous enemy.

"Britannia Rules Waves."

"Nor would the campaign itself have been possible if the British Mediterranean fleet under Admiral Cunningham had not chased the Italian navy into its harbors and sustained every forward surge of the army with all the flexible resources of sea power.

"How far-reaching these resources are, we can see from what happened at dawn this morning, when our western Mediterranean fleet, under Admiral Somerville, entered the Gulf of Genoa and bombarded in a shattering manner the naval base from which perhaps a Nazi German expedition might soon have sailed to attack Gen. Weygand [France's commander in Africa] in Algeria or Tunis.

"It is right that the Italian people should be made to feel the sorry plight into which they have been dragged by Dictator Mussolini, and if the cannonade of Genoa, rolling along the coast, reverberating in the mountains, has reached the ears of our French comrades in their grief and misery, it may cheer them with the feeling that friends, active friends, are near and that Britannia rules the waves.

"The events in Libya are only part of the story. They are only a part of the story of the decline and fall of the Italian empire. That will not take a future Gibbon so long to write as the original work.

Push Ahead in Eritrea.

"Fifteen hundred miles away to the southward, a strong British and Indian army, having driven the invaders out of the Sudan, is marching steadily forward thru the Italian colony of Eritrea, thus seeking to complete the isolation of all the Italian troops in Abyssinia. While British forces are entering Abyssinia from the west, the army gathered in Kenya, in the van of which we may discern the powerful forces of the Union of South Africa organized by Gen. Smuts, are striking northward along the whole enormous front. Lastly, the Ethiopian patriots whose independence was stolen five years ago, have risen in arms and their emperor, so recently an exile in England, is in their midst to fight for their freedom and his throne.

"Here, then, we see the beginnings of a process of reparation and of the chastisement of wrongdoing which reminds us that tho the mills of the gods grind slowly they grind exceedingly small.

"While these auspicious events have been carrying us stride by stride from what many people thought a forlorn position and once certainly a very grave position, in May and June, to one which permits us to speak with sober confidence of our power to discharge our duty, heavy tho it be, in the future—while this has been happening a mighty tide of sympathy, of good will and of effective aid has begun to flow across the Atlantic in support of the world cause which is at stake.

Americans Survey Front.

"Distinguished Americans have come over to see things here at the front and to find out how the United States can help us best and soonest. In Mr. Hopkins [Harry L. Hopkins], who has been my frequent companion during the last three weeks, we have the envoy of the President, the President who has been newly reëlected to his august office.

"In Mr. Wendell Willkie we have welcomed the champion of the great Republican party. We may be sure that they will both tell the truth about what they have seen over here, and more than that we do not ask. The rest we leave with good confidence to the judgment of the President, the congress, and the people of the United States.

"I have been so very careful since I've been prime minister not to encourage false hopes or prophesy smooth and easy things, and yet the tale that I had to tell today is one which must justly and rightly give us cause for deep thankfulness and also, I think, for sound comfort and even rejoicing.

"But now I must dwell upon the more serious, darker, and more dangerous aspects of the vast scene of the war. We must all of us have been asking ourselves what of that wicked man whose crime-stained régime and system are at bay and in the toils, what has he been preparing during these winter months? What new deviltry is he planning? What new small country will he overrun or strike down? What fresh form of assault will he make upon our island homes and fortress? Which, let there be no mistake about it, is all that stands between him and the domination of the world.

"Greater Violence" Ahead.

"We may be sure that the war is soon going to enter upon a phase of greater violence. Hitler's confederate, Mussolini, has reeled back in Albania. But the Nazis, having absorbed Hungary and driven Rumania into a frightful internal convulsion, are already upon the Black sea. A considerable German army and air force is being built up in Rumania and its forward tentacles have already penetrated Bulgaria with what we must suppose is the acquiescence of the Bulgarian government. Airfields are being occupied by German ground personnel numbering thousands, so as to enable the German air force to come into action from Bulgaria.

"Many preparations have been made for the movement of German troops into or thru Bulgaria. And perhaps this southward movement has already begun. We saw what happened last May in the Low Countries. How they hoped for the best, how they clung to their neutrality, how awfully they were deceived, overwhelmed, plundered, enslaved, and, since, starved.

"We know how we and the French suffered when at the last moment, at the urgent, belated appeal of the king of the Belgians, we went to his aid. Of course, if all the Balkan people stood together and acted together, aided by Britain and by Turkey, it would be many months before a German army and air force of sufficient strength to overcome them could be assembled in the southeast of Europe. And in those months much might happen.

"Much will certainly happen as American aid becomes effective, as our air power grows, as we become a well armed nation, and as our armies in the east increase in strength. But nothing is more certain than that, if the countries of southeastern Europe allow themselves to be pulled to pieces one by one, they will share the fate of Denmark, Holland, and Belgium, and none can tell how long it will be before the hour of their deliverance strikes.

"One of our difficulties is to convince some of these neutral countries in Europe that we are going to win. We think it's astonishing that they should be so dense as not to see it as clearly as we do ourselves. I remember in the last war in July, 1915, we began to think that Bulgaria was going wrong, so Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Bonar Law, Sir F. E. Smith, and I asked the Bulgarian minister to dinner to explain to him what a fool King Ferdinand would make of himself if he were to go in on the losing side. It was no use. The poor man simply could not believe it, or couldn't make his government believe it.

A Warning to Bulgaria.

"So Bulgaria, against the wishes of her peasant population, against all her interests, fell in at the kaiser's tail and got sadly carved up and punished when the victory was won.

"I trust that Bulgaria is not going to make the same mistake again. If they do, the Bulgarian peasantry and people, for whom there has been much regard both in Great Britain and the United States, will for the third time in 30 years have been made to embark upon a needless and disastrous war.

Takes Rap at Laval.

"In the central Mediterranean, the Italian Quisling [Maj. Vidkun Quisling is the Nazi leader in Norway], who is called Mussolini, and the French Quisling, commonly called Laval [Pierre Laval, ousted vice premier and foreign minister] are both in their different ways trying to make their countries into doormats for Hitler and his new order, in the hopes of being able to keep or get the Nazi gestapo and Prussian bayonets to enforce their rule upon their fellow countrymen. I cannot tell how the matter will go, but at any rate we shall do our best to fight for the central Mediterranean.

"I dare say you will have noticed a very significant air action which was fought over Malta a fortnight ago. The Germans sent an entire geschwader [squadron] of dive bombers to Sicily. They seriously injured our new aircraft carrier Illustrious, and then, as this wounded ship was sheltering in Malta harbor, they concentrated upon her all their force so as to beat her to pieces.

90 Bombers Destroyed.

"But they were met by the batteries of Malta, which is one of the strongest defended fortresses in the world against air attack. They were met by the fleet air arm and by the royal air force and in two or three

CHURCHILL QUOTES POEM PRINTED BY LONGFELLOW IN 1849

The verse which Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain quoted in his radio address yesterday is a fragment from Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's long poem, "The Building of the Ship," published in 1849.

The poem begins:

"Build me straight, O worthy master!
Stanch and strong, a goodly vessel,
That shall laugh at all disaster,
And with wave and whirlwind wrestle!

The opening lines are addressed by a merchant to the ship builder. They are adopted as a song by the builder and his men.

The portion which Churchill said he received from President Roosevelt is near the end of the poem, which closes thus:

Thou, too, sail on, O Ship of State!
Sail on, O Union, strong and great!
Humanity with all its fears,
With all the hopes of future years,
Is hanging breathless on thy fate!
We know what Master laid thy keel,
What workmen wrought thy ribs of steel,
Who made each sail, and mast, and rope,
What anvils rang, what hammers beat,
In what a forge and what a heat
Were shaped the anchors of thy hope!
Fear not each sudden sound and shock,
'T is of the wave and not the rock;
'T is but the flapping of the sail,
And not a rent made by the gale!
In spite of rock and tempest's roar,
In spite of false lights on the shore,
Sail on, nor fear to breast the sea!
Our hearts, our hopes, are all with thee,
Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears,
Our faith triumphant o'er our fears,
Are all with thee—are all with thee!

The poem was the leading piece in Longfellow's volume entitled "The Seaside and the Fireside."

SERMON ON THE MOUNT QUOTED TO WAVELL ON FALL OF SIDI BARRANI

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in his speech yesterday, said that at the time of the British victory at Sidi Barrani, he called the attention of Lieut. Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, commander-in-chief of the British army of the near east, to Christ's words:

"Ask, and it shall be given you; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you."

These words, the seventh verse of the seventh chapter of the gospel according to St. Matthew, King James' version, are from the Sermon on the Mount. Delivered to a multitude which thronged to a mountain top to hear Him, it inculcated the essence of Christ's way of life and thinking.

According to commentators, this particular passage marks a break in Christ's trend of thought and came, apparently, when a disciple asked Him, "How shall we get into the kingdom of God?"

This verse was his reply. He elaborated in the succeeding verse with, "For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened."

ILLUSTRIOUS THRICE TARGET OF ATTACKS BY NAZI BOMBERS

The British aircraft carrier Illustrious, which Prime Minister Churchill yesterday reported the Germans attacked for two or three days at a cost of more than 90 dive bombers, first was bombed on Jan. 10.

In an onslaught that lasted for seven hours more than 40 German planes flung torpedoes at the vessel's sides, and 100,000 pounds of high explosive bombs at her flight deck. The British admiralty said the attack took place in the channel between Sicily and North Africa.

The Illustrious which reached Malta, was again attacked on Jan. 16, and on Jan. 19, and military authorities at Berlin claimed on Jan. 21 that the ship had assumed a heavy list at the quay at Valetta, and was believed to have been sunk.

Chufchill declared yesterday that the Germans sent 150 dive bombers into the attack on the big carrier at Malta.

Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox announced at Washington, D. C., on Feb. 5 that the Illustrious had reached Alexandria and that the bombing had cost her 80 men.

INVASION STILL GREATEST ISSUE, SAYS CHURCHILL

British Will Outfight Foe, He Predicts.

days had lost, out of 150 dive bombers, upwards of 90—50 of which were destroyed in the air and 40 on the ground. Altho the Illustrious in her damaged condition was one of the great prizes of the air and naval war, the German geschwader accepted the defeat. They would not come any more.

"All the necessary repairs were made to the Illustrious in Malta harbor, and she steamed safely off to Alexandria under her own power at 23 knots. I dwell upon this incident not at all because I think it disposes of the danger in the central Mediterranean but in order to show you that there, as elsewhere, we intend to give a good account of ourselves.

"But, after all, the fate of this war is going to be settled by what happens on the oceans, in the air and, above all, in this island.

"It seems now to be certain that the government and people of the United States intend to supply us with all that is necessary for victory. In the last war the United States sent two million men across the Atlantic, but this is not a war of vast armies, hurling immense masses of shells at one another. We do not need the gallant armies which are forming thruout the American union. We do not need them this year nor next year nor any year that I can foresee.

Much Shipping Needed.

"But we do need most urgently an immense and continuous supply of war materials and we need them here and we need to bring them here. We shall need a great mass of shipping in 1942, far more than we can build ourselves, if we are to maintain and augment our war effort in the west and in the east.

"These facts are, of course, all well known to the enemy, and we must therefore expect that Herr Hitler will do his utmost to prey upon our shipping and reduce the volume of American supplies entering these islands. Having conquered France and Norway, his clutching fingers reach out on both sides of us into the ocean. I have never underrated this danger and you know I have never concealed it from you.

"Therefore, I hope you will believe me when I say that I have complete confidence in the royal navy, aided by the air force of the coastal command, and that, in one way or another, I am sure they will be able to meet every changing phase of this truly mortal struggle, and that, sustained by the courage of our merchant seamen and of the dockers and workmen of all our ports, we shall outwit, outmaneuver, outfight, and outlast the worst that the enemy's malice and ingenuity can contrive.

Invasion Still a Peril.

"I left the greatest issue to the end. You will have seen that Sir John Dill, our principal military adviser, the chief of the imperial general staff, has warned us all yesterday that Hitler may be forced by the strategic economic and political stresses in Europe to try to invade these islands in the near future. That is a warning which no one should disregard. Naturally, we are working night and day to have everything ready. Of course we are far stronger than we ever were before, incomparably stronger than we were in July, August, and September.

"Our navy is more powerful, our flotillas are more numerous. We are far stronger, actually and relatively, in the air above these islands than we were when our fighter command beat off and beat down the Nazi attack last autumn. Our army is more numerous, more mobile, and far better equipped and trained than in September, and still more than in July. And I have the greatest confidence in our commander in chief, Gen. Brooke, and in the proved ability of the generals under him who guard the different quarters of our land. But most of all I put my faith in the simple, unaffected resolve to conquer or die which will animate and inspire nearly four million Britons with serviceable weapons in their hands.

"It is not an easy military operation to invade an island like Great Britain without the command of the sea and without the command of the air and then to face what will be waiting for the invader here.

Foe, Too, Better Prepared.

"But I must drop one word of caution, for next to cowardice and treachery, overconfidence leading to neglect or slothfulness is the worst of martial crimes. Therefore, I drop one word of caution: A Nazi invasion of Great Britain last autumn would have been a more or less improvised affair. Hitler took it for granted that when France gave in we should give in. But we did not give in. And he had to think again.

"An invasion now will be supported by a much more carefully prepared tackle and equipment of landing craft and other apparatus, all of which will have been planned and manufactured during the winter months. We must all be prepared to meet gas attacks, parachute attacks, glider attacks, with constancy, forethought, and practiced skill.

"I must again emphasize what Gen. Dill has said and what I pointed out myself last year: In order to win the war, Hitler must destroy Great Britain. He may carry havoc into the Balkan states; he may tear great provinces out of Russia; he may march to the Caspian; he may march to the gates of India. All this will avail him nothing. He may spread his curse more widely thruout Europe and Asia, but it will not avert his doom.

"With every month that passes, the many proud and once happy countries he is now holding down by brute force and vile intrigue are learning to hate the Prussian yoke and the Nazi name, as nothing has ever been hated so fiercely and so widely among men before. And all the time, masters of the sea and air, the British empire—nay, in a certain sense, the whole English speaking world—will be on his track, bearing with them the swords of justice.

An Answer to Roosevelt.

"The other day President Roosevelt gave his opponent in the late Presidential election a letter of introduction to me, and in it he wrote out a verse in his own handwriting from Longfellow which, he said, 'applies to you people as it does to us.'

"Here is the verse:

"'Sail on, O ship of state;
Sail on, O union strong and great.
Humanity with all its fears,
With all the hopes of future years,
Is hanging breathless on thy fate.'

"What is the answer that I shall give in your name to this great man, the thrice chosen head of a nation of 130,000,000?

"Here is the answer which I will give to President Roosevelt:

"Put your confidence in us. Give us your faith and your blessing, and under Providence all will be well. We shall not fail or falter; we shall not weaken or tire. Neither the sudden shock of battle nor the long drawn trials of vigilance and exertion will wear us down. Give us the tools and we will finish the job."

The paraders were in four sections—religious groups, civic and social organizations, unions and miscellaneous clubs, and youth groups.

VICHY HEARS THIS MAY BE THE WEEK FOR PEACE DRIVE

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Feb. 9.—Is next week reserved for a peace offensive in Europe? There are many rumors of it tonight in Vichy. These rumors coincide with the general European undercurrent of hostility toward the United States which has flowed so far that a Swiss newspaper suggests that, paradoxical as it may seem, England may turn out to be the bulwark for Europe against American ambition.

The European press generally is full of references to what is called "Roosevelt's European offensive." As the Journal of Geneva puts it, "invoking the Monroe Doctrine, Americans do not want Europeans to mix in affairs of their continent but that does not prevent them from mixing more and more in European affairs."

WARNS AMERICA MUST KEEP AIR FORCE TO BE SAFE

Stop Giving It Away! Maj. Williams Pleads.

If the United States is to withstand possible invasion, it must stop "giving away" its air force and must convert its air base in British Guiana into an American Gibraltar to control the Caribbean and the South American coastline north of Natal, Maj. Alford G. Williams declared yesterday.

Maj. A. G. Williams.

Maj. Williams, an aviation expert and writer, made this statement in the course of a three-sided radio discussion under the auspices of the University of Chicago Round Table, Prof. Hugh M. Cole, director of history at the university, and Leland C. De Vinney, professor of sociology, were the other participants in analyzing the question, "Can the Americas Be Invaded?"

Rule Out North America.

The three ruled out of their discussion the question of an invasion of the North American continent. They agreed there could be no such invasion, altho there could be individual raids, such as a long-range bomber dropping bombs on a single city, or a lone destroyer bombarding a city on either coast without hope of returning to its base.

They agreed, moreover, that before an invasion of the western hemisphere becomes feasible, Great Britain must fall and with it the British fleet and British control of the South Atlantic ocean, the United States must have failed to establish its ring of air bases, and the United States' two-ocean navy must be uncompleted, leaving the Atlantic ocean unguarded.

Other Conditions Listed.

"Another condition," Prof. Cole said, "would be the German domination of the Portuguese coast, which could be accomplished easily after the fall of Britain. Another step would be the construction of departure bases on the African coast. Finally, the Germans must obtain access to some South American countries. Then, the danger is in our back yard."

"I'm still thinking," interrupted Maj. Williams, "of the fact that you can't walk from the Azores to South America. You have to float or fly.

"Don't forget that gap over those oceans. If we have any kind of an air force, we are still going down and interrupt those sea communications just as Germany did in the North sea."

Air Force a Myth, He Says.

"Is the American air force to do this job?" Prof. De Vinney asked.

"As I said to them in Washington," Williams began, "the American air force is a myth.

"You can't fill a bucket that has a hole in the bottom. I say solder up the bottom of the pot, and then you have your air force and darn quick. But you can't have planes and give them away.

"Have we the long range bombers to operate from British Guiana to Portugal?" De Vinney asked.

"Yes," the major replied, "we have those long range bombers at present. We have the type developed in our flying fortress, but we keep shipping them away."

Cites Power of Arms.

"I believe the war so far has shown that small bodies of men highly trained with enough arms can establish and hold positions without difficulty," Prof. Cole suggested. "Bases for the Germans will be prepared in advance by those little dictators in South America."

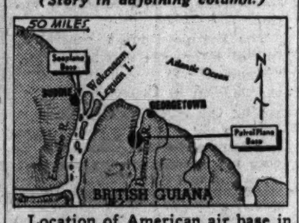
"Quite so," Williams replied. "If we continue to look all around the world instead of paying attention to our own problems, Hitler will be the first guy to show America its fundamental problem—to take care of itself."

"What should the United States do to minimize the possibility of the Germans operating from South America?" De Vinney asked.

"Stop yelling at other nations," Williams proposed. "Get busy. Let's get going and take care of ourselves."

American Stronghold

(Story in adjoining column.)



Location of American air base in British Guiana, which must be converted into "Gibraltar" to control Caribbean and South American coastline north of Natal, according to Maj. Alford Williams.

Jugo-Slavia Arrests 100 After English Club Blast

ZAGREB, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 9 (AP).—More than 100 persons have been arrested in connection with last week's bomb explosion in the English club here. The suspects were identified as Croat nationalist extremists.

SOLDIERS FIGHT QUEBEC POLICE IN 'GRUDGE BATTLE'

QUEBEC, Feb. 9 (AP).—City police used tear gas "to some extent" during an hour long street fight last night with members of the Highland light infantry unit stationed here, Lieut. Col. G. F. Berteau said tonight. The entire infantry unit, from Brantford, Ont., and now stationed here, has been confined to barracks indefinitely. Berteau is assistant adjutant of the military area.

The disturbance was described as a "grudge" demonstration involving more than 400 soldiers. Capt. A. S. Bigaouette, police chief, said his men used one hand grenade type tear gas bomb at the height of the disorder. He said it "did not end the fight but had some effect in dispersing a large group of soldiers." Military officers rushed to the scene and broke up the disturbance.

Lieut. Col. Berteau said the soldiers sought revenge on the city police for the arrest "by force" of two men of their regiment after another incident last week.

Fight Civilians in Streets.

NEW GLASGOW, N. S., Feb. 9 (AP).—Several hundred soldiers fought each other and civilians Saturday night, damaged buildings and other property and set fire to one house. Officials refused to announce the cause of the clashes.

The crowded main street of the town was impassable for a time as different units battled each other. Town and military police could not control the soldiers.

A large group of military police picketed the downtown section tonight. Some soldiers were in military hospital, but the number was not disclosed.

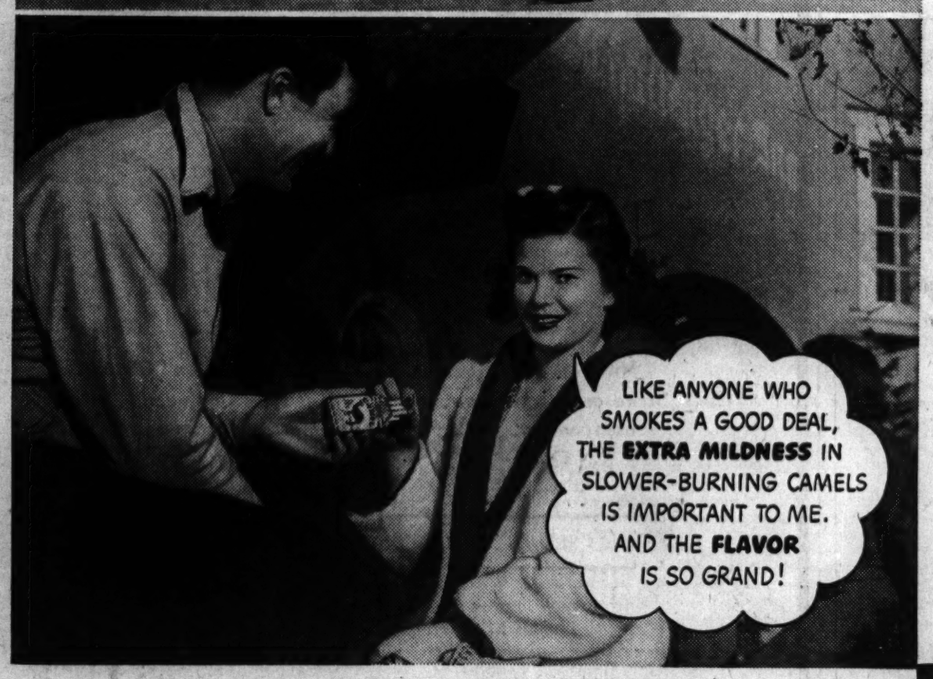
THE SMOKE OF SLOWER-BURNING CAMELS GIVES YOU

EXTRA MILDNESS, EXTRA COOLNESS, EXTRA FLAVOR

FLASH FROM SUN VALLEY!

Evelyn Doman figure-skating star

Breathtaking spins, spirals, jumps—there's a thrill in every click of her flashing blades. And afterwards—"A Camel tastes so good—they have so much more flavor," says Miss Doman. But more flavor is only one of the "extras" you get in Camels—see below.



LIKE ANYONE WHO SMOKES A GOOD DEAL, THE EXTRA MILDNESS IN SLOWER-BURNING CAMELS IS IMPORTANT TO ME. AND THE FLAVOR IS SO GRAND!

IF YOU SKATE, you know that cutting a pretty figure is not as simple as pretty Evelyn Doman makes it appear. Behind her seemingly effortless grace are hours of practice.

She takes her skating seriously...her smoking, too. "I smoke a good deal," she explains. "Slower-burning Camels give the extra mildness I want."

Slower-burning . . . costlier tobaccos. Yes, slower-burning Camels give you a fuller measure of flavor without the harsh effects of excess heat . . . extra mildness, extra coolness, extra flavor.

And along with that extra pleasure you have the word of science that in slower-burning Camels you get less nicotine in the smoke.

BY BURNING 25% SLOWER than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—Camels also give you a smoking plus equal, on the average, to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

CAMEL THE SLOWER-BURNING CIGARETTE

AND

28% LESS NICOTINE

than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested—less than any of them—according to independent laboratory tests of the smoke itself

NO MATTER how much you smoke, all you get from a cigarette—flavor, mildness—you get in the smoke! The smoke's the thing!

Science has told you Camels are slower-burning. This slower way of burning means more mildness, more coolness, more flavor in the smoke.

Now, these new independent tests reported above—tests of the brands that most of you probably smoke right now—drive home another advantage in slower-burning Camels—extra freedom from nicotine in the smoke.

Dealers everywhere feature Camels at attractive carton prices. For convenience—for economy—buy slower-burning Camels by the carton.

ITALIAN BOMBERS DAMAGE HISTORIC SALONIKA CHURCH

Other Areas Attacked; 8 Raiders Shot Down.

ATHENS, Greece, Feb. 9 (AP).—Italian bombers raiding at least six cities and localities in Greece today heavily damaged the historic Church of St. Sophia in Salonika and killed 20 women and children in Janina, the ministry of home security reported late tonight. The high command said eight of the raiders were shot down.

Gen. Ugo Cavallero, who commands Italians in Albania.

The Church of St. Sophia, one of the best examples of Byzantine architecture, was hit squarely by one bomb, which damaged the belfry and destroyed the left aisle and part of the women's section. Another bomb fell in the church yard.

The home security ministry said a small number of houses and a church were wrecked in Janina. A child was reported killed at Patras. Three other points reported raided without damage or casualties were Preveza, an unannounced town on the western Peloponnese, and a rural district near Corinth.

Greeks Bomb Bases.

Greek bombers were active too, attacking Italian bases near the Albanian town of Berat. Activity on the ground was limited to patrol work and artillery fire, the high command said.

Greek dispatches described the general situation as developing satisfactorily. A Greek spokesman said that Italian counterattacks since the assignment three weeks ago of a new Italian commander for forces in Albania, Gen. Ugo Cavallero, had "failed with heavy losses in men and materials for the Italians."

"The great counterattack which the Greeks launched at night time in the central sector day before yesterday has been the most sanguinary one," he said.

"Our units are mopping up positions recently captured and our patrols have displayed successful activity in contrast to the Italian patrols, which invariably dispersed under our fire."

Jugo-Slavs Fire on Planes.

BITOLJ, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 9 (AP).—Five foreign planes—presumably Italian—flew across this town near the Albanian border this afternoon at about a mile altitude and drew the fire of Jugo-Slav antiaircraft batteries. The planes broke formation and sped toward Albania.

Italians Make Air Attacks.

ROME, Feb. 9 (AP).—Actions of a "local character" on the Albanian front were reported by the Italian high command today. Air attacks were made on Preveza and Navarino, the communique said, and three enemy planes shot down.

NORWEGIAN NAZI LYNCHED BY MOB, SWEDEN REPORTS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 9.—Sven Erik Rolf, one of Europe's greatest revue producers and well known in Hollywood, Cal., was beaten to death by an angry mob of patriotic Norwegians in Drammen when he tried to make a pro-Quisling speech, Swedish newspapers reported today on the basis of information from Norway.

Rolf was said to have been a fanatical Nazi and supporter of Maj. Vidkun Quisling, Norwegian Nazi chief. During a political meeting in Drammen, it was reported, Rolf challenged a crowd of patriotic Norwegians who tried to break up the meeting.

"I am your master now," Rolf is alleged to have said. When the angry patriots closed in on him, the story goes on, Rolf broke down and started begging for his life, "tearfully promising to amend his ways, but it was too late," the accounts said.

TWO HELD IN THEFTS OF LEAD.

Englewood police yesterday recovered 1,500 pounds of lead stolen from the Goldsmith Brothers Smelting and Refining company, 1300 West 59th street. They arrested John Jakeway, 36 years old, and John Bruen, 25, both of 6546 South Aberdeen street, as the suspected thieves.

BELGIANS LIVING IN CANADA GET CALL TO COLORS

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 9 (AP).—The first Belgian nationals in Canada called to the colors by their own government in exile have been notified to report Feb. 25 at Cornwall, Ont., for military training.

The initial call affects men between 19 and 25. Others will be called. The mobilization is part of a world-wide effort to train Belgians outside of the German occupied territory for incorporation in Belgian forces.

ITALIANS ATTACK AT NIGHT; GREEKS ARE WIDE AWAKE

They Shoot Straight Even at 3 in the Morning.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Feb. 9.—Italian forces, trying desperately to hold the important Tepeleni route in Albania, have changed their strategy so that it now includes night fighting. Previously they had counterattacked only at dusk or dawn. Two days ago they launched a strong counterattack at 3 a. m. and followed this with a second drive at 5 a. m. Neither attack took the Greeks by surprise.

In the first attack, the Greeks let the Italians advance until they were scrambling up a steep hillside at short range. As they thus toiled they were caught by a storm of crossfire from Greek posts on both flanks. The Italians not only had to retreat but left behind them many light mortars. Two hours later, apparently hoping the Greeks would think they had had enough for one night, the Fascists tried a second attack.

Defenses Stronger Than Ever.

Greek cavalry, meanwhile, had rushed up light machine guns and the Greek defenses were stronger than ever. They broke the attack and drove the Italians out of the positions from which they had started.

The Greeks unofficially report that an entire Italian division took part in these attacks and Italian casualties, they say, were at least 1,500 killed or wounded.

Greek cavalry took a leading part in the second attack, slipping in behind the Italians in the moonlight and cutting them off. Italian reenforcements trying to advance were held back by the cavalry patrols with light machine guns until Greek infantry arrived to help them.

Win Observation Post.

The Greeks, among other positions, took an artillery observation post that had been most useful to the Italians.

Yesterday, the Italians again used light tanks but were driven back easily as they tried to advance down one of the narrow, rockbound valleys typical of Albania.

ARGUMENT OVER WILLKIE BUTTON CAUSES DEATH

An argument over the wearing of a Willkie button dating back to last fall's campaign caused the death last night in Augustana hospital of Don Pinther, 38 years old, of 1512 North La Salle street.

An acquaintance of Pinther, Elmer Hitt, 56, of 1429 North Clark street, a decorator and former business agent of the painters' union, had worn the button. During the campaign Pinther several times took exception to it. The men met again yesterday at the corner of Schiller and Clark streets. Hitt no longer was wearing the button, but, according to his story to Hudson avenue police, Pinther again brought up the matter.

Pinther, he said, had been drinking and in his indignation assumed a fighting posture and swung at Hitt, but slipped on the ice and fell, fracturing his skull. Hitt, altho asserting he did not strike a blow, was held for the inquest this morning.

BROKEN HEARTED DOG MAY DIE ERE HE SEES MASTER

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 9 (AP).—Laddie, the 10 year old Airedale that is pining to death for his master enlisted at Camp Ord, Cal., arrived here from Albuquerque, N. M., by plane in a rainstorm tonight, so weak and sick a veterinarian said he might not live to see his master, Private Everett Scott, in camp tomorrow. The Airedale began wasting away after Scott joined the army three months ago and left him behind at Chanute, Kas. Laddie took his first food at Kansas City, Mo., after a blood transfusion.

LOST INCA CITIES DISCOVERED HIGH IN PEAKS OF PERU

Construction Compared to Egyptian Pyramids.

New York, Feb. 9 [Special].—Two great buried cities of the Incas, South American tribesmen who called themselves "The People of the Sun," have been uncovered in the Andes mountains of Peru by a daring expedition of 67 men.

Dr. Paul Fejos.

Dr. Paul Fejos, American leader of the expedition, has not yet estimated the age of the cities, high above the clouds at an elevation of 12,000 feet. But the known history of the Incas goes back 700 years, and Fejos says the discoveries may uncover an enormous empire of the pre-Inca races. The discoverer said the masonry rivals the pyramids of Egypt in weight and magnitude.

Fights Way Thru Jungle.

Dr. Fejos' report was made public today by associates of Axel L. Wenner-Gren, the Swedish industrialist who is sponsoring the expedition.

The expedition fought its way to the cities thru uncharted jungle, and up 250 miles of perilous rivers, while constantly menaced by hostile natives. Chance discovery of an ancient paved road led the hardy explorers to their amazing finds.

A mountain forest, centuries old, had covered the cities. But, delving beneath, the archaeologists came upon walls of solid white granite that rose 300 feet from their base, baths cut from native rock and fed by elaborate water channels, a stairway of 536 hand hewn stone steps, a sewage and drainage system, watch towers, temples, houses, plazas, and terraces.

3 Man Made Masonry Caves.

There were three man made masonry caves, which recall the caves from which the legendary brothers from whom the Incas traced their history were said to have sprung. These brothers were Manco, Cachi [Salt], Uchi [Pepper], and Auca [Pleasure].

The cities are in a valley in the south central sierra or mountainous region across the Andes from Macchu Picchu, north of Cuzco, where the Hiram Bingham expedition from Yale made important Inca discoveries in 1911. One is called "The City above the Clouds" and the other "The Inaccessible City."

Part of the expedition fell into the hands of natives when an airplane motor failed. The prisoners were rescued thru bargaining by the rest with the captors. Dr. Fejos reported that his men also discovered a lost Spanish colony.

Cities Found

(Story in adjoining column.)

The "city above the clouds" and the "inaccessible city" of pre-Inca days have been found north of Cuzco, near Macchu Picchu (arrow) by an American expedition. Location of the expedition's base camp is shown.

RUSSIA BEGINS TRADE PARLEYS WITH JAPANESE

Press Sees Tokio and U.S. Tension in Pacific.

MOSCOW, Feb. 9 (AP).—Amid reports of growing tension in the Far East between "Japan and the Anglo-American bloc," soviet Russia opened negotiations today for a trade treaty with Japan.

[In the middle of the sentence announcing the opening of trade negotiations the telephone connection between the Associated Press offices in Berlin and Moscow was broken. There was no explanation of where or why the conversation was interrupted. The rest of this story, with no further mention of the negotiations, was cabled directly to New York.]

"The strain on relations between Japan and the Anglo-American bloc has increased in connection with the refusal of representatives of the Dutch East Indies to discuss a Japanese proposal that Japan be given a dominant position in the economy of Indo-Asia and include this country [the Netherlands East Indies] in a 'great eastern Asiatic sphere,'" said the Red Fleet, organ of the soviet navy.

Cites Dodd Diary.

"Concrete measures adopted by both sides compel one to suppose that the situation in the Pacific is approaching a decisive stage," it added, citing foreign reports of Japanese warships off the southern coast of French Indo-China, and of maneuvers of the United States fleet in the Pacific.

The press also reported a dispatch from New York by Tass, official soviet news agency, quoting excerpts from the diary of the late William E. Dodd, former United States ambassador to Germany. It said Dodd "exposes behind-the-scenes activity of a number of American politicians," including William C. Bullitt, the first United States ambassador to Russia and later ambassador to France.

"Bullitt, according to Dodd, seemingly approved unlimited aggression against the soviet union in the east as well as the west," Tass declared.

U. S. Envoy Entertains.

The dispatch also said the diary showed several attempts by both American and British politicians to provoke a clash between Germany and Russia.

United States Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt was host last night to two Russian vice commissars of foreign affairs and the axis ambassadors at a dinner in the embassy. His guests were Vice Commissars Andrei Y. Vishinsky and S. A. Lozovsky, German Ambassador Count Friedrich Werner von der Schulenburg, Italian Ambassador Augusto Rosso, and Japanese Ambassador Yoshitsugu Tatekawa.

Jap Aim Exposed in Plane Crash.

HONGKONG, Feb. 9 (AP).—The Chinese central news agency declared today that important documents, exposing a Japanese plan to launch a southward push, were found in the wreckage of a plane in which Admiral Mineo Osumi, Japanese supreme war councillor and six other naval officers were killed in Kwangtung province, China.

It said booty from the plane included Osumi's sword, uniform and papers showing he was bound for the island of Hainan, off the south China coast, to assume command of a united Japanese South China seas fleet preparatory to directing a southward drive. The agency also reported that a second Japanese naval plane was shot down two days later.

F. D. R. DICTATOR BILL ASSAILED AS BETRAYAL OF U. S.

It 'Out-Hitlerizes Hitler,' Dr. O'Brien Says.

La Porte, Ind., Feb. 9 [Special].—President Roosevelt's dictator bill "out-Hitlerizes Hitler," the Rev. Dr. John A. O'Brien, professor in the graduate school of the University of Notre Dame, declared in a speech here today.

Dr. John A. O'Brien reading letters against trend to war.

He warned that American congressmen will be guilty of the greatest betrayal in all history if the United States is plunged into the present European conflict under the smoke screen of measures short of war.

Speaks at Massmeeting.

Father O'Brien spoke at a massmeeting sponsored by the Mothers of American Sons and backed by civic, social, religious and patriotic organizations of La Porte county. The meeting was held as a protest against the lease-lend bill and other congressional maneuvers tending to pull this country into the war.

Piled on the platform beside Father O'Brien were thousands of letters of commendation he had received from American parents indorsing his stand against a military dictatorship in the United States. His action helped initiate the flood of letters and telegrams now deluging congressmen from constituents opposed to this country's participation in the conflict.

Belittles Invasion Threat.

"This is not our war; it is Europe's war," Father O'Brien declared. "Neither is Britain our first line of defense.

"Every American in his senses knows, as leading experts repeatedly have stated, that America never was in less danger of invasion than now. We easily can build an impregnable defense."

THIEVES LOOT DOCTOR'S CAR.

Dr. Shayle Miller of 6322 Vernon avenue reported to police yesterday the theft of surgical instruments valued at $125 from his car parked at Jackson Park hospital.

180 More Censors Join British Staff in Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 9.—Reenforcing the British imperial censorship staff, about 180 more censors have arrived from England to examine trans-Atlantic mails. The staff of the imperial censorship department here, which is separate from the local censorship staff, now totals about 800.

WILLKIE RETURNS CARRYING SABER AND A TOM-TOM

Reports He Also Has Some New Ideas.

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie, home from a "see for myself" tour of England and Ireland, said today he had heard "no talk expecting, anticipating, or suggesting that the United States become an active ally in warfare with Britain."

The defeated Presidential candidate said he went abroad 18 days ago "as a private citizen on my own responsibility and I'm coming back the same way." He brought home a saber and a tom-tom presented to him by the governor of Portuguese Guinea.

Willkie asserted that "opponents of aid to Britain are saying that if the United States gives aid to Britain we may become involved in war, while if we do not give aid to Britain we can remain at peace.

Calls It "Unrealistic."

"That is a wholly unrealistic statement of the issue. As a matter of fact, in my judgment, if we do give aid to Britain we are likely to stay out of war, while if we do not give aid to Britain we shall probably become involved in war."

He declined to elaborate on the statement, except to indicate a belief that if Britain collapses the chances of the United States becoming involved in war are great.

Willkie disclosed that he had a day long conference with Winston Churchill and three members of his cabinet, Clement Atlee, Anthony Eden, and Lord Beaverbrook. This, he said, had not been previously announced, because of the "safety and other factors."

Withholds His Conclusions.

He declined to express his conclusions on the trip pending his appearance, probably on Tuesday, before the senate foreign relations committee at a hearing on the British aid bill passed yesterday by the house

Willkie said that "they [the British] are naturally very hopeful that we as a free people will give to them as a free people all the material aid that we can give."

He said that he had gained "certain supplemental ideas" on aid to Britain, altho he declined to discuss them. Nor would he comment on his visit to Eire, where he conferred with Prime Minister Eamon de Valera.

"I am deferring completely any comment on my observations because what I have to say I want to say in consecutive order," Willkie said.

A large crowd of friends and admirers braved a biting early morning wind at the New York airport's marine base to meet the Dixie Clipper, which brought Willkie home over a new southern route from Lisbon via Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, Africa, westward to Trinidad, thence to Puerto Rico, and north to New York.

Willkie appeared stirred by what he has seen in the last few days as he talked to newsmen shortly after his arrival.

"The free people of the United States," he said, "should be prayerfully thankful that they do not have to live as the free people of Britain are compelled to live, with sleepless nights of apprehension and days of fear as to what may happen on the morrow."

"Talked with Thousands."

While Willkie said he conferred with all British government, labor, and industrial leaders, he added that he also had "talked with literally thousands of people totally unassociated with the government, and the people were unrestrained in their comment to me on conditions."

Asked whether his observations had caused him to change his views on help to Britain or passage of the aid bill, which he favors with minor modifications, he replied, "Obviously my views on the whole thing, the way it should be handled, and so forth, have been affected."

After a facetious reference to lion hunting in Bolama, during the Clipper's stopover there, and Willkie's laughing remark that no lions were encountered, some one suggested he had been in the English pubs and wanted to know how English beer compared with the domestic brew.

It's "Pretty Good."

"I don't want to make any invidious comparisons," he said smiling, "but that English beer is pretty good."

His wife and their son Philip were the first to meet him as he walked up the ramp from the Clipper.

NOBODY LOVES A LANDLORD.

The life of the average dwelling is commonly considered to be 40 years. If houses last 40 years, they wear out at the rate of 2½ per cent a year. A city like Chicago would have to build 20,000 to 30,000 new homes a year to provide for the annual wastage. In Chicago and suburbs the annual requirement would be 30,000.

Thus it appears that we are not building enough to provide adequately for our shelter. All construction in Chicago and suburbs, taken together, including private homes, apartment buildings of all sorts, slum clearance projects, and FHA financed buildings, for the four years from 1936 to 1939 provided for only 41,397 families. To sustain the housing supply, 120,000 units were needed.

Little of the building that was done could be justified on the cold investment basis. The landlord who puts fresh money into building has to have a return, or the prospect of a return, or there is no building. Many landlords already have their money tied up, and cannot do anything but provide shelter at the price people are willing to pay, even if there is a loss. An empty house is soon destroyed by the elements and hoodlums.

Charging all that the traffic will bear, as every one else does, landlords as a rule have been getting little net return on their investment in recent years. The investment was large in many instances, because the buildings were put up when prices were high. New building might be done in an amount adequate to keep up our stock of living quarters if the cost of building went down somewhat, or if rentals improved.

Consider the facts. The low point of the depression in the United States was in June, 1932. Since that time, according to the United States bureau of labor statistics, there has been an increase of 12 per cent in the price of food, 11 per cent in the price of clothing, and 17 per cent in the price of house furnishings. The figures of the same authority show that there has been a decline in rents in the same period, amounting to 11 per cent. There wasn't much building in the United States because the cost of building was high with reference to the level of rents. But while rents are now lower than in 1932, the cost of building is 59 per cent higher than in 1932. It is now even less profitable to put up buildings to rent than it was at the bottom of the depression.

When one starts quoting figures, the temptation is to go on ad boredom. But a couple of other numbers seem to insist upon being mentioned despite the preceding array. Rents are now only 14 per cent higher than in 1914 at the outbreak of the world war, while the cost of living has gone up 40 per cent. Shelter is the cheapest important item in the family budget. While rents are only 14 per cent higher than in 1914, the cost of building houses has gone up 181 per cent.

There isn't anything mysterious about the low level of residential building of the last 10 years. It simply isn't profitable. Either the cost of building is too high, or the level of rents is too low. Until there is a readjustment of the relationship of building costs and rents, building will be stagnant.

Any one who looks at the economics of building, frankly and without prejudice, must be dismayed at the statement made the other day by Miss Harriet Elliott of the national defense advisory commission, in which she viewed with great alarm the increase in rents which had been put into effect in some localities. You don't have to be a landlord or a lover of landlords to realize that rents are abnormally low. What this country needs to be prosperous and to have an abundance of new modern homes, is a change in the present ratio of rents to building costs. Miss Elliott's statement only confuses the issue for the thoughtless.

SILLY SYMPHONY IN THE MUNICIPAL COURT.

Commissioner Allman has announced that the annual rodeo and roundup of motorists who have failed to get their 1941 license plates and vehicle stickers will start in a few days. That's the conventional beginning of the comedy. There is no reason why motorists shouldn't have their licenses on their cars on Jan. 1, as the law intends. But the show becomes a silly symphony when the erring brothers are picked up and taken into the Municipal court.

The Kelly-Nash law lord who happens to be sitting in traffic court will marshal the hundreds of license law violators before him, deliver a mild lecture on their duties as citizens, and then temper justice with mercy by the announcement that if they have license receipts, or will come back quickly with them, the charges against them will be dismissed.

Those small car owners who have not done so already will go out and plank down $6.50 for their license and all will be forgiven. But the transaction will not end here. For each case on the judge's call the clerk of the court will chalk up $8.50 in costs and, since the case was dismissed, will bill the county government for those costs. The county has to pay $8.50 to the city to collect $6.50 for the state.

There is no reason why these costs should be imposed on the county, to the tune of several hundreds of thousands of dollars each year on these license arrests and on the equally fruitless gambling arrests. The delinquent motorists have put the police force and courts to considerable trouble. The least penalty they should pay should be the cost of arraigning them in court. If they were required to pay costs most of them would have their licenses by Jan. 1 next year.

President Smith of the county board has sent a bill to Springfield transferring back to the city of Chicago the cost of trying state charges in the Municipal court. That is where they belong, and the bill should be passed. Taxpayers living outside the city should not be taxed to support a court that does not serve them.

While they are on the subject, the legislators should also deprive the municipal judges of their present privilege of dictating to the city council the extent of their annual budget. The only excuse ever offered for this privilege was that it was supposed to bolster judicial independence.

That obviously is not an argument that fits the Municipal court of Chicago. In the first place, the judges are not independent. Boss Nash said publicly that they did his bidding, and nothing the judges have ever done has caused the public to doubt his word on the matter. And if they did show any disposition to independence, it would not be affected by denying them the power to pack the offices of the clerk, bailiff, and chief justice with useless pay rollers.

BRITISH AND GREEK VICTORIES.

Gen. Wavell's operations against Gen. Graziani, now bringing to Mussolini's sandy empire a new disaster at Bengazi, are pronounced by observers who have followed them as being of almost incredible brilliance. What the Nazis did in thickly populated western Europe, where concentrations could operate on short radial lines, the British forces in Africa have done where distances are great and natural conditions exceedingly difficult.

The whole pretentious threat of the Fascist advance on Egypt and Suez, which the British seemed unprepared to meet, was thrown into reverse when Sidi Barrani was captured, early in December, and in something like two months the invaders were reduced to what appears to be the demoralized fragment of an army, with its equipment captured or destroyed and its loss in prisoners an embarrassment to the victors.

The Italians were unable to make a stand at any of their posts against the speed, surprise tactics, and shattering blasts of the forces commanded by Gen. Wavell. Whatever the outcome of the war, this Libyan campaign will certainly be regarded as one of history's most brilliant military achievements.

Winston Churchill, in his address to the Italian people, was considerate of their feelings when he reminded them that undoubtedly the disasters Mussolini had brought upon them were attributable not only to his malevolence but to the fact that the Italian soldier had been shown no reason which could inspire him to a display of his natural courage. These were polite words and inasmuch as the British have always had a more kindly regard for the Italians and a greater affection for Italy than the Germans, there undoubtedly was a great deal of sincere and genuine feeling in them.

The Italian reverses in Albania and Africa would indicate that the flamboyant dictator of Italy's destiny in recent history has failed completely to indoctrinate the people with his nonsense that war in itself is a glorious spiritual experience and that nothing more sublime could occur in the life of any Italian than death on any battlefield, anywhere, to spread fear of the new Roman empire and enhance its fame. Hitler got that bug into the more receptive German mind, which sometimes naturally tunes itself to the trumpet blasts of the Wagnerian Ring Cycle.

It may be unfortunate that the brilliance of the British and Greek performances cannot bring commensurate military consequences. One of the axis partners is hanging on the ropes but, unfortunately for the present, the situation on the continent of Europe is not perceptibly changed. The badly mauled partner was more a window decoration in the shop of the brotherhood than an essential member of the concern. His troops weren't needed for the Nazi control of the continent and they weren't needed in the war against Britain.

The power the Italian fleet might have been expected to display in the Mediterranean, to the confusion of the British after the disappearance of France, fell to pieces after a few disastrous encounters with the British navy and the British air force. Apparently what remains of what was called Italian sea power is in port for such protection as can be given it.

Hitler, however, has not been weakened by the blows struck against his ally and at the worst might have only to take Italy into protective custody, classifying it with the other countries in which the Nazi divisions stand on guard and keep the population in order. If the French and British lines were now holding in France as they were in 1917 and 1918—if in nothing more than a stalemate—the shock given the Fascist-Nazi combination by these military reverses might predict the turn of victory, just as the exhaustion of Turkey and Austria forecast the ultimate defeat of Hindenburg and Ludendorff.

But Hitler isn't weakened. His hold on the continent is as defiant as before and the task of meeting him on the only ground and by the only method by which his defeat and overthrow could be calculated is as remote of accomplishment, even to the imagination, as it was before. That he can overcome the British defense may be an equally remote possibility but in the same category of expectancies must be put the idea that any now existing army, with any equipment it can acquire, could force a lodgment on the continent and from there break thru the Nazi forces and chase Hitler as a fugitive to his mountain retreat.

ENERGY AND SKILL DO NOT PASS BY REQUEST.
[Baltimore Sun.]

Clarence Schock, the Lancaster county [Pa.] man who has turned over his million dollar oil business to the community as a public trust, deprecates the idea that he is a philanthropist. He has given his business to the community, he says, because he doesn't believe in inheritance and thinks that the government ought to tax most estates out of existence. He would permit a man to provide for his minor children, of course, and he would permit a widow to enjoy her husband's property; but that is about all.

Perhaps the really remarkable thing about Mr. Schock is the fact that he is consistent enough to act on his beliefs. As for his gift, it may, or may not, turn out to be a permanent benefit to the community. The Schock Oil company owns a certain amount of physical property; but by general agreement its greatest assets are the skill and energy of its creator. Mr. Schock admits that he has had a constant battle to survive in competition with the big oil companies. A man only a little less able presumably would not have survived.

But no man is able to bequeath his energy and ability, so the most valuable of all business assets do not pass by inheritance, anyhow.

A FEW EXOTIC DRINKS.

If you are an experimentalist in your attitude toward the cup that cheers, and occasionally grow weary of the same old tipples with the same old labels, you might like to sample the following curiosities:

Zubrowka—Vodka in which a certain Russian grass, named zubrowka, has been steeped. It has a slightly yellowish tinge, an aromatic bouquet, and a suggestion of bitterness.

Okolehao—Generally called "oke" in Hawaii, its native land. It is distilled from sugar cane molasses, rice, and the juice of taro roots. It has a dark color, a flavor that comes from the taro root, and a strong kick. Its proper usage is in cocktails and punches.

Ouzo—A Greek brandy, flavored with anise, popular in its native land as an aperitif. When diluted with water it has a milky, opalescent color.

Calvados—A trained American drinker, tasting it blindfolded, would call it applejack and be right. It is a by-product of the apple and cider business in Normandy. It is more mellow than applejack, for it is not sold until it has aged in wood for about 10 years.

Parfait Amour—A liqueur or cordial, violet in color and candy sweet, which is flavored with essential oil of violets and vanilla. It is also called Crême de Violette and Crême Yvette. This cloying stuff, mixed with gin, formed the "blue moon" of the early 1920s, when people were reading "This Side of Paradise."

VALENTINE FOR MARY.

I give, my dear, no satin heart
Containing bargain candy,
Tho possibly such hearts are smart,
And doubtless candy's dandy.

Nor give I paper heart with rhymes,
All framed in paper lace,
With Cupids, dressed for warmer climes,
To clutter up the place.

I give my heart—just hear it sing!
And since you have, I know,
No place to put the doggoned thing,
My sleeve shall wear it, so!

"Hon" Talks Back to "Chiggers."

[See "Psychology Makes Happy Families," the Line, Jan. 29, and Chiggers' boasts, months back, about his prowess as a cook.]

Chiggers was an appropriate enough name for that pesky insect until the Line acclaimed him a "cooking husband." A good shot, Mr. Linemaster; the creature has been stewed plenty—at Yuletime when holiday spirits are generous and some are gratis, he gets jingled like your quaint old schellenbaume. Not content with fogging my kitchen with outlandish smells such as fish in hot garlicked rum or animal giblets simmering in beer, he now barges into my psychology defense against pants in the kitchen, scorched pots and dish cluttered sinks. And does Chig fancy himself as a chef! It's only a cook book he's putting together at present, but if any woman ever puts her nose into it she'll need a psychiatrist right quick.

Marjorie F. W.

On the Trail of Keats' Grecian Urn.

Amy Lowell, in her "John Keats," claims that no urn had anything to do with Keats' perfect ode, but that the inspiration really came from the Elgin marbles—from that part of the frieze of the Parthenon which shows the cattle being brought to the sacrifice. According to Miss Lowell, Keats spent two years intermittently gazing at the Elgin marbles. He had studied Haydon's drawings and, at Haydon's instigation, had read Goldsmith's "History of Greece."

However, William T. Arnold, in his "John Keats" [1887], claims that the inspiration for the poem was in reality an urn that then stood under the arcade of the south front of Holland house. In 1880, the same author was informed by an authority at the British museum that Keats' inspiration may have sprung from an engraving by Piranesi of a large urn owned by Lord Holland. However, the Piranesi engraving showed but one side of the vase, and, this museum authority points out, the poet may have turned to another engraving, in the same volume, of an urn in the Borghese gallery. Halters for Imperial Mustaches.

So you wear an eye bandage in order to get your beauty sleep in the sunny morning hours! You do? Let me tell you about a more wonderful invention. About 40 years ago the potentate who later became the wood chopper of Doorn had his upstanding mustache groomed by a barber named Haby. Of course the kaiser had many imitators, and so Haby invented and patented his "schnurrbartbinde," a contraption that fitted over the mustache and was hitched to the ears. It was worn at night to keep the bristles from drooping.

QUICK ACTING ANESTHETICS.

As we would expect, war conditions have brought rather important changes in surgery—particularly in anesthetics. The army surgeon in the field cannot have at hand a completely equipped and expertly staffed hospital. In consequence, he may be obliged to rely upon quick acting drugs the effects of which may persist but a short interval. These substances—most of them belonging to the barbituric acid group—may be dissolved and then injected directly into a vein. In fact, their ease of administration and their relative safety have made them preferable when minor surgery is called for.

Naturally, we will inquire — what about the risk? There is one and but one essential safeguard—namely, the avoidance of an overdose. The physician must know exactly how the products behave and what they will do. If a patient is taking ethylene, as an illustration, and is not reacting well, the flow of gas may be stopped. But once a chemical has been introduced into the body there is no chance to call it back. If too much depression of the breathing apparatus is noted, or if coma becomes so profound that the danger point is reached, the antidote is oxygen or artificial respiration. But, here again, the drug is in the blood and forced breathing may need to be maintained for several hours.

What are some of these chemicals? Those frequently employed are sodium pentothal or sodium evipan. The quantity will depend upon the state of the patient's health, his height, weight, and general build; as well as the length of time he must be surgically insensible. For example, within 60 seconds he may be asleep, only to emerge into consciousness within one-quarter of an hour. This is the usual reaction when a moderately mild dose is given for the opening of an abscess or the carrying out of some procedure which requires but a few minutes.

To produce a more lasting influence, the preparation is prescribed in large amounts, the administration lasting approximately one minute. This provides for an even distribution of the chemical thruout the blood stream. Thus, the period of "sleep" is considerably longer. The patient does not relax quite so speedily but he fails to awaken until excretion of a considerable portion has occurred.

There are many reasons why a more extensive operation should not be attempted under this type of anesthesia unless an emergency exists. Using pentothal alone, we must expect a marked lowering of breathing. It may even be necessary to have recourse to oxygen for inhalation purposes and a tank should be available for immediate use. Nevertheless, under this régime, fractures may be reduced or manipulated and certain dental and other short operations performed.

One great advantage of these compounds is that they may be utilized to allay apprehension. In such circumstances the dose may be small—in other words, perfectly harmless. But the individual will slumber peacefully during the trip to the operating room. Later, if circumstances demand, a general anesthetic such as ethylene may be continued with impunity. This plan has several good points not the least of which is the fact that the surgeon cannot foresee what he may encounter. He may be far longer in accomplishing his task than anticipated.

SKIN BLEMISHES.

A. V. writes: What causes beauty marks? Is there any way to get rid of them?

REPLY.

Beauty spots, so-called, include birthmarks [dilated capillaries], moles, and deposits of pigment. They are usually congenital and are occasioned by some failure of development, or by misplaced cells. None of these lesions is subject to home remedies. Your physician can advise you best, as dark, raised moles—once in a while—become cancerous.

LUNG SCAR.

J. P. writes: A young man, after being examined by the draft board, was told he had a scar on one lung. What does this mean?

REPLY.

A healed lesion; in all probability an old tuberculosis. Under ordinary conditions no recurrence of the malady need be anticipated. The strain of war, however, with undue fatigue, exposure, and irregular meals, might lead to a breakdown.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

FROM DR. DELEE.

Coronado, Cal., Feb. 5.—I have just read a TRIBUNE clipping saying that the Cook county hospital is dangerously overcrowded, and that patients have to be turned away.

As far as maternity cases are concerned the condition is remediable at once.

There are delivered annually at the county hospital at least 1,500—possibly 2,000 mothers, who could, with equal safety, have their babies at home. The Chicago Maternity center, the Chicago Lying-in hospital, and perhaps I may speak for the Illinois Research hospital and the Central Free Dispensary, all have excellent facilities for taking care of mothers in their own homes, and could, together, give excellent service to more than 2,000 women each year, in addition to what they are doing now, with outstanding success.

This service is rendered the public without expense to the county and would save it $75,000 to $80,000 every year.

VICTIMS OF HYSTERIA.

Glen Ellyn, Ill., Feb. 5.—As a member of the North Du Page County League of Women Voters, I wish to register my protest against the league supporting the lend-lease bill 1776, and I feel sure that the great majority of the membership feel as I do, i. e., that this bill is unquestionably a war bill and every effort should be made to defeat it.

It is a bitter disappointment to me that after years of educating ourselves to a better understanding of politics, both national and international, that all of this great effort should fall utterly at this most critical time, and that the leadership of this presumably most politically enlightened group of women in America should become victims of war propagandists and war hysteria.

OPENING FOR BANDSMEN.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—There are vacancies in the 124th Field Artillery band for capable musicians. This regiment, with its band, leaves as part of the Illinois National Guard for a year's training soon after March 5, 1941. Musicians may serve as musicians with an opportunity for specialists' pay. There are about 10 vacancies yet in this band for players of all instruments. If interested, report at the 124th Field Artillery armory at 5200 South Cottage Grove avenue on Monday nights between 7 and 10 o'clock.

HENRY G. ZEH,
W. O., 124th F. A. Band.

COSTS COMPARED.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—If Hitler dominated Europe the United States could beat anything Hitler would try in South America by buying all of their products at more than Germany could pay. We would still be better off than by going to war, as war would cost us about 15 to 20 times as much yearly, besides all of the suffering. WILLIAM MCKINLEY HENIE.

AND STALIN.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—I wonder whether Mr. Roosevelt will be consistent enough to declare war against himself after he becomes dictator! C. N.

SABOTAGE OR CARELESSNESS?

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Again we read of another defense production plant involved in a fatal fire, with workers killed and plant operations interrupted. And again the cry of "sabotage" is heard. So frequently is this cry used where industrial mishaps occur that it is assuming the characteristics of an alibi or smoke screen to divert attention from the real responsibilities often at the bottom of a situation.

The story of this recent fatal fire tells us that a sprinkler system valve was shut off, and that men had trouble opening the valve. It goes on to relate that a fire door was ordered closed. These facts show that only partial fire protection existed, this depending upon manual efforts to become operative. Only as, if, or when somebody opened the valve was water available for the sprinklers. And only as, if, or when somebody closed a fire door could the travel of the fire be stopped or retarded at that point. And these conditions were allowed to exist in such an exceptionally hazardous place as a cotton processing plant.

Any production plant processing hazardous materials, chemicals, organic matter, volatile liquids, etc., should employ the very best and the most effective fire extinguishment equipment. This should be fully automatic in operation, of a type suited to the particular hazard involved, and of ample capacity to handle the situation. Cries of sabotage cannot serve to excuse incomplete protection and its consequences. MAX E. KRAUSE.

PLANNING IT THAT WAY.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—As long as it has been "planned that way" and the next step is war, and in view of the fact that the casualty tags have been ordered, should there not also be a requisition made for a huge supply of coffins? Why does not the congress appropriate billions of dollars and cause to be constructed dozens of veterans hospitals, including base hospitals in other continents near the scene of action—and what about concentration camps after congress has abdicated? After all, we must look to the future in planning the "national defense."

EX-A. E. F.'ER.

BURGLARS VS. BOOKIES.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—I wonder how long the people will stand for the hypocrisy of having citizens fingerprinted for betting, when you can bet as much as you wish in any race track in the country.

Why not arrest the burglars, and forget about the bookies? JAY F. BOOTH.

WHERE THE PRECINCT CAPTAIN COMES IN.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Why the discrimination between workers on WPA who earn $100 or more a month and those assigned at what is known as a security wage who earn less than $100 a month?

Persons in the lower wage bracket must be certified from the relief rolls while those in the higher bracket are exempted from this requirement. Another apparent discrimination is that persons assigned to work on the defense projects do not have to be certified from the relief rolls. This must be where the precinct captain's recommendation comes in.

AN AMERICAN.

FROM LINCOLN SCHOOL.

Chicago Heights, Ill., Jan. 23.—We are thanking you for the picture of Nathan Hale. We do appreciate it. We like the picture because of its colors and its frame. It is a nice big picture for the school.

My class is studying about Nathan Hale. We are glad to hear he was so brave. I learned the words that Nathan Hale said before they hanged him. He said, "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

PRESUMPTION OF DEATH.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like some advice for my brother. He has not seen or heard of his wife in 15 years. I would like to know [1] if he is considered free to marry or [2] does he have to go to court? 3. How does he go about it? R. H.

1. No. Altho such a missing person is presumed dead, it is not safe to marry on a mere reliance on the presumption of death.
2. This is stronsly advisable.
3. The first step is to employ an attorney.

To guard against any suspicion of favoritism we have adopted the rule of never supplying the names of attorneys. If you have favorable contact with an attorney we suggest that you get in touch with him.

The Chicago Bar association under a new Reference Plan is ready to give you the name of a lawyer who has agreed to charge not over $3 for a first half hour interview. Apply in person at the Chicago Bar association, 29 S. La Salle street, 11th floor.

AMERICA FIRST AIMS ANTI-WAR GUNS ON SENATE

Dictatorship Foes Urged to Intensify Fight.

Mrs. Janet Ayer Fairbank, vice chairman of the Chicago chapter of the America First committee, yesterday urged "every man and woman who holds dear the welfare of the United States" to "write and write repeatedly" to Washington demanding senate defeat of President Roosevelt's war dictatorship bill.

With passage of the bill by the house, the battle against it has just begun, Mrs. Fairbank declared.

"No one must give up hope," she said. "The America First committee is in this fight to stay. It is in this fight to win.

"Both friends and foes of the dictatorship bill have known all along that it is in the senate that the real battle will take place.

"The bill can and must be defeated there.

Urge "Concentration of Fire."

"We call upon patriotic Americans to concentrate their fire upon their senators. That is the only way senator can find out what their constituents want.

"If the people speak, the dictatorship bill will be defeated."

The house amendments limiting to $1,300,000,000 the amount of defense equipment now on hand or on order which may be turned over to Great Britain, and giving congress the power to rescind at any time any and all powers given the President by a majority vote of both the house and the senate on the same day, mark the beginning of the end of the dictatorship bill, Mrs. Fairbank predicted.

"We had expected the house to pass the resolution as it came from the President," she said. "That the house tacked on these important amendments may be regarded as a victory."

Go to Springfield Today.

Mrs. Fairbank and Miss Cornelia Howe, secretary of the Chicago chapter of the committee, will leave for Springfield this morning to be on hand tomorrow when the lower house of the general assembly is scheduled to act on a resolution demanding defeat of the war powers bill. A delegation of America First members will accompany them.

Edward F. McGinnis, chairman of the veterans' division of the Chicago chapter of the America First committee, said yesterday he still had received no reply from Scott W. Lucas, Illinois' Democratic senator, on the committee's invitation to debate with Wayland Brooks, the state's Republican senator, on the war dictatorship bill.

NORTH SHORE LINE TIED UP 7 HOURS BY RAIL WRECK

Passenger traffic on the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad was tied up for more than seven hours yesterday by the derailment of a freight train on the North Western railroad 10 miles north of Racine, Wis. The accident occurred at Ryan's tower crossing where tracks of the two lines intersect.

The North Shore's new streamlined four car train, the Electroliner, which was making its first regular passenger trip from Chicago to Milwaukee was held up at the crossing. Passengers were transferred to another train at the opposite side of the tracks. Another unit of the Electroliner did not leave Milwaukee for Chicago.

(Pictures on back page.)

Tullahoma, Tenn., Feb. 9 [Special].—Completion of Camp Forrest, where the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, will undergo a year's training, now is only a few weeks away. The job will be finished by the time troops begin arriving here March 10. Ten days will be required to move all the units from Illinois, some coming by train and others by truck.

Among the first buildings to be completed and occupied were the camp canteens. Most of the barracks and mess halls are ready for occupancy and the camp laundry is expected to be in operation by the time troops arrive. The camp bakery is ready to turn out bread from its ovens.

A detachment of quartermaster troops with their supply trucks already is in the camp to supply the needs of the Illinois troops when they arrive. Besides the 33d division, the camp also will contain an Ohio cavalry regiment.

POULTRY THIEVES DRUG CHICKENS TO QUIET THEM

Authorities said last night they believed the same gang of chicken thieves who have been operating in Indiana and downstate Illinois were responsible for thefts last Thursday and Friday in Kane and McHenry counties.

Sheriff Marcus Damisch reported more than 100 chickens were taken from two farms in Kane county Thursday night and Sheriff Lester Edinger of McHenry county reported the theft of 200 chickens from three farms near Woodstock Friday night. More than 1,500 chickens have been stolen during the last two months from farms in De Kalb county, authorities said.

Police said the thieves operated with a truck and that in many instances used chloroform to drug the chickens so the owners would not be awakened.

STATE WILL PAY LINCOLN TRIBUTE ON ANNIVERSARY

Horner's Collection to Be Dedicated.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9.—Abraham Lincoln was born 132 years ago next Wednesday, and here in the city where his body lies beneath a stately monument, the anniversary will be especially observed.

Arrow locates New Salem where Lincoln lived.

There will be speeches by Gov. Dwight H. Green and other notables, a pilgrimage to the tomb, and, of more material importance, the dedication of the Henry Horner collection of Lincolniana, which extensive assemblage the late governor presented to the state historical library before his death last October.

More than 5,000 items are contained in the Horner collection representing a much loved hobby indulged in for many years. The addition of these books, manuscripts, and memorabilia make the state collection the finest in existence, according to the historical society's librarian, Paul M. Angle.

Gov. Green Will Speak.

Gov. Green will be the principal speaker at the dedication ceremonies Wednesday afternoon. Others on the program include Clint Clay Tilton, president of the historical society; Oliver Barrett of Chicago, noted Lincoln collector; Carl Sandburg, Lincoln's most comprehensive biographer; Robert E. Straus of Chicago, the late governor's cousin, and Lieut. Gov. Hugh Cross.

Preceding this program, the house of representatives will hold its own observance.

The American Legion, led by national and state leaders, has scheduled a Lincoln day breakfast, parade, and commemoration banquet with Gov. Green speaking at the latter event. The Veterans of Foreign Wars will make its annual pilgrimage to the tomb in Oakridge cemetery, which never ceases to attract several hundred daily visitors from all parts of the world.

Another Visit to Tomb.

Another mass visit to the tall white shaft will be made under the direction of the state Young Republican organization, members of which are also to be given a reception at the governor's mansion.

Wednesday night, Dean Charles W. Gilkey of the University of Chicago will speak to the Abraham Lincoln association, most prominent of the local organizations devoted to forwarding the Lincoln tradition.

Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera, the Mexican ambassador, and Leonard W. Brockington of Canada will headline the Lincoln program sponsored by a Springfield club on Tuesday night.

In addition, if the weather permits, many visitors are expected Wednesday at New Salem, the village on the banks of the Sangamon near Petersburg where Lincoln lived from 1831 to 1837, and the scene of his romance with Ann Rutledge. Restoration of this pioneer community, which is rich in Lincoln legend, was begun under the late Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, and enthusiastically completed by his successor, Gov. Horner.

Will Visit Mother's Grave.

Lincoln City, Ind., Feb. 9 (AP).—A pilgrimage to the grave of Nancy Hanks Lincoln on a wooded hilltop near here—yearly tribute of the Boonville Press club—will mark the birthday of her son, Abraham Lincoln, Wednesday.

The pioneer mother died of a frontier plague in 1818, when Abraham was 9, and was buried in a whipsawed coffin without a funeral. Young Lincoln lived in Indiana from his 9th to his 21st year.

In the years Lincoln was an Illinois grocery clerk and lawyer, and then President, and then a martyr to his championing of the Union in the civil war, her grave lay undecorated. Finally, in 1879, P. E. Studebaker, South Bend wagon manufacturer now dead, put a plain stone at her head.

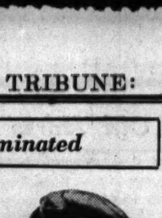
Now a state park of 1,726 acres stretches nearby, and close to the grave a limestone memorial—two assembly halls and a cloistered walk around a court—is rising. It is to be finished by next fall.

Nominated

Joan Fontaine. Katharine Hepburn.

Martha Scott. Ginger Rogers.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 9 (AP).—One of five actresses, Bette Davis, Joan Fontaine, Katharine Hepburn, Ginger Rogers, and Martha Scott, will get the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences award for the best performance by an actress in 1940.



Bette Davis.

President Walter Wanger tonight announced nominations for all of the awards presented annually by the academy.

Nominations for the best performance by an actor were Charles Chaplin, Henry Fonda, Raymond Massey, Laurence Olivier, and James Stewart.

A choice will be made from among 10 outstanding pictures, "All This and Heaven Too," "Foreign Correspondent," "The Grapes of Wrath," "The Great Dictator," "Kitty Foyle," "The Letter," "The Long Voyage Home," "Our Town," "The Philadelphia Story," and "Rebecca."

Home of John B. Drake Sr. Burglarized; Loss Is $4,325

Burglars stole clothing and jewelry valued at $4,325 yesterday from the apartment of John B. Drake Sr. at 1235 Astor street while he and his wife, Jessie, were absent. Hudson avenue police believe the thieves used a passkey. The most valuable article taken was a $3,000 silver fox cape. Drake is a former hotel executive now representing an oil company.

REED SMOOT, 79, U. S. SENATOR FOR FIVE TERMS, DIES

Tariff Authority Will Be Buried in Utah.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 9 [Special].—Reed Smoot, 79 years old, Republican United States senator from Utah from 1903 to 1933, died here today. Never fully recovered from a fall on a golf course two years ago, Smoot had been ill for months before he came here three weeks ago.

Reed Smoot.

Funeral services will be conducted in Salt Lake City, Utah. Burial will be in nearby Provo, his home since he was 10 years old. The funeral party will leave St. Petersburg at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

During his 30 year tenure in the senate Smoot became an expert on tariffs and government finances. He had a leading part in writing the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill in 1910 and the Fordney-McCumber law of 1923, but his greatest effort was the Smoot-Hawley act which became a law in 1930.

Defeated in 1932.

Smoot was defeated for reëlection in 1932 in the Democratic landslide. He returned to Salt Lake City [his birthplace on Jan. 10, 1862], and took up his business affairs and his duties as one of the 12 apostles of the Mormon church.

Smoot was elected to the senate in 1902 in his first bid for political office. Prior to that time he had been the biggest business man in Utah with interests in banking, mining, and live stock raising.

Always a devout churchman, it was this association which threatened to keep him out of the senate after his first election. Smoot's father, like many members of the Mormon church, had believed in and practiced polygamy.

Son of Plural Marriage.

Smoot was a son of a plural marriage and two years before his election to the senate had been elected an apostle of the church. Easterners fought him on the grounds that he believed in polygamy and that he had been elected to the senate as a representative of a church whose leaders still practiced polygamy in violation of the national law.

Defending himself, Smoot declared his personal opposition to the practice and reminded the senate that he had taken only one wife, Alpha M. Eldridge, a daughter of Gen. Horace Eldridge, in 1884. He then obtained a rule which required a two-thirds vote to unseat him and while a majority voted against him, his foes could not obtain the necessary two-thirds vote.

Finance Committee Chairman.

During his last term in the senate Smoot was chairman of the finance committee and ranking member of the appropriations committee.

Smoot's first wife and the mother of his three daughters and three sons died in 1928. Two years later he married Mrs. Alice T. Sheets, widow of a bishop of the Mormon church.

Survivors include the widow, the daughters, Mrs. Chloe Cardon, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. Zella Hardy, and Mrs. J. W. Marriott, Washington, D. C.; the sons, Harold and Ernest, of Washington, and Harlowe E. Smoot, Provo; and a stepson, Dr. Walter T. Sheets, a St. Petersburg physician, at whose home the former senator was a guest when he died.

'ELIZABETH,' 74, DIES; WIDOW OF TWO NOBLEMEN

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Lady Russell, 74, who under the pen name of Elizabeth, wrote "Mr. Skeffington," "Enchanted April," and other novels, died today.

The Australian born writer, twice the widow of noblemen, was a victim of influenza. She had been spending the winter at Summerville, S. C. With her at her death was her daughter, Mrs. Corwin Butterworth of Hartford, Conn.

Born Mary Annette Beauchamp, she was married while still in school to Count Henning August Von Arnim, a German. When he died in 1910 she inherited a 60,000 acre estate in Pomerania. Six years later she married Bertrand Russell's brother, the second Earl Russell, who died 9 years ago.

Her first novel, "Elizabeth and Her German Garden," was published 43 years ago. No one knew the identity of "Elizabeth" until years later. She wrote "Vera," "Father," "Pastor's Wife," and many other well known novels.

HOWARD HEINZ, '57 VARIETIES' PRODUCER, DIES

Relapse Following an Operation Is Fatal.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 9 (AP).—Howard Heinz, 63 years old, president of the H. J. Heinz company of Pittsburgh, died tonight in Jefferson hospital.

Howard Heinz.

Dr. Henry K. Mohler said the industrialist died from a cerebral hemorrhage that occurred this morning. Heinz had entered the hospital shortly before Christmas to undergo an operation. His condition had appeared good until a relapse.

At the bedside when the end came were Mrs. Heinz and a son, Jack.

Born in August, 1877, Heinz entered the international business established by his father, H. J. Heinz, and known for its "57 varieties," soon after he was graduated from Yale university in 1900.

Headed Company in 1919.

In 1907 he became sales manager of the Heinz company. Eight years later he was made chairman of the board and succeeded to the presidency after his father's death in 1919.

During the world war he served as United States food administrator for Pennsylvania and zone chairman of the food administration for Pennsylvania, Ohio, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia.

He married Elizabeth Granger Rust of Saginaw, Mich., in 1906. Two sons were born to them, Henry J. "Jack" Heinz and Rust Heinz, who died several years ago.

Started with Horseradish.

Howard Heinz said a bottle of horseradish was the acorn from which his family's business grew. His father in 1869 rented a shack, hired two women and a boy to help them grate and bottle horseradish, and thus started the first of the 57 varieties. Pickles were added two years later, and other products followed.

Young Groups Seek Costumes for Two Parties

BY JUDITH CASS.

OLD clothes are being dug out of attic trunks, and magazines and newspapers are being cut up in preparation for two costume parties which the Dinner-Dance club and the Fortnightly group will give within the next two weeks. There'll be no touch of lavender and old lace about the Fortnightly's Valentine's day dance, for the young people have been bidden to a "hard times" party. A costume resembling those worn in "Tobacco Road" is a "must" for such a party.

Mrs. Nelson Thomasson Jr. heads the committee in charge of the Fortnightly dances, which have been consistently popular among Chicago young people for 40 years. Mrs. Nelson Thomasson Sr., Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Sr., and Mrs. A. C. McClurg started the group years ago.

Mrs. John R. Thompson Plans Small Dinner.

Altho no regular dinner party precedes the dances at the Fortnightly club, the mothers of the young people usually entertain at small dinners. Mrs. John R. Thompson is planning such a dinner for her daughter, Polly, and her friends before next Friday night's Fortnightly.

One of the young members of the Dinner-Dance club has been begging for weeks for an advertising party. His wish will be granted at the Dinner-Dance club party on Feb. 21 at the Saddle and Cycle club. All the guests must come dressed as advertisments and, altho there'll be no prizes for costumes, it's safe to say that a good part of the evening will be spent in guessing which product each guest represents.

Mrs. Roger Faherty, who is in charge of the Dinner-Dance club parties, is looking forward to a trip to Palm Beach, Fla., on March 9.

Catherine Patrick Becomes Bride of Dr. W. H. Hazlett.

Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Patrick of Goldsboro, N. C., announce the marriage of their sister, Miss Catherine Patrick, to Dr. William H. Hazlett, yesterday. The wedding and reception took place at the home of the bride. After a month's honeymoon, Dr. and Mrs. Hazlett will be at home at 1428 State parkway.

Mrs. Donald W. Mercer Weds Cyril G. Fanning.

In a quiet wedding at her Winnetka home on Saturday afternoon Mrs. Donald W. Mercer was married to Cyril G. Fanning of Chicago. Dr. Horace Bridges read the service in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends. The bride was attended by her daughter, Miss Betty Mercer, who returned from Connecticut college for the occasion. Also present were the bride's sons, Fielding Mercer, who came from Virginia, and Donald Jr., and the bridegroom's young son, Cyril Jr.

Mrs. Fanning's brother, Fred I. Raymond, was best man. Another brother, Albert W. Raymond, and his wife, formerly of Paris, arrived on Saturday for the marriage. Their home now is in New York. The bride's mother, Mrs. Lillian E. Raymond of Pasadena, Cal., and Mr. Fanning's father, Charles G. Fanning of Chicago, also were in the family group. Mr. Fanning and his bride have left on a three weeks' trip south and will be at home after May 1 at their farm in Prairie View, Ill.

Mrs. Chauncey McCormick Arrives from East Today.

The Chauncey McCormicks are undecided whether they'll go to their Coconut Grove home, in southern Florida, this season. Mrs. McCormick will return today from a trip to Boston, where she went to see her sister, Mrs. Richard Ely Danielson, and New York, where she saw her son, Deering.

Mrs. George Arthur Kelly and Miss Kathleen Kelly are returning today from a fortnight at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Mrs. Frank B. Nairne Jr. and her five-month old son, Frank Balch Nairne III., Terry for short, are back in Chicago for a month's visit with Mrs. Nairne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stanley Hodges of Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Nairne, the former "Dinny" Hodges, and her husband live in Cambridge, Mass., at the edge of the Harvard university campus. Mrs. Arthur Burrows Jr. has planned a dinner party for Mrs. Nairne tonight.

Rodney H. Brandon, director of the department of public welfare of the state of Illinois, will speak on "Lay Participation in Good Government" at the winter meeting of the Chicago Junior league this morning. The lecture will start at 11:45 o'clock after a business meeting at 10:30 in the Tower room of the Drake hotel.

Adelaide Robertson to Wed William H. Gage.

Gage, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kellogg Gage of Wilmette. Miss Robertson was graduated from Cornell university. Mr. Gage, a graduate of Yale university and of its law school, is practicing law in Buffalo. The wedding will take place on April 10.

Artist Shows Old England in Water Colors

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

The England of Wordsworth and Coleridge, of Oliver Goldsmith and Ruskin is revealed in a series of poetically painted water colors by the British artist, Gerald Ackermann, at the Ackermann galleries. Among the 24 scenes is the beautiful "Gray Day, Pembroke Castle," which was exhibited in the Royal academy in London last year.

"Harlech Castle, North Wales," tho small in size, gives the impression of vast open spaces and wind-swept sky, with the ancient walls of the castle rising in the foreground. Among the cathedrals pictured are those of Durham, Wells, Canterbury, Gloucester, Lincoln, and Westminster.

At the same galleries is a new showing of 14 water colors by W. Russell Flint, well known painter, examples of whose work are in the permanent collections of the Art institute. The subjects are figure studies and seascapes. Mr. Flint has no imitators known to this observer, for it seems impossible to duplicate his pearly, translucent tones. These are most evident in the delicate colors of "Old Channel Fortress, Brittany," "The Rising Veil," "The Fortress, Serona, Catalonia," and two glimpses of St. Malo.

Both these interesting exhibitions will continue thru the month.

At the Arts club are paintings by Albert André, Loren MacIver and the late Paul Klee. Of the 20 canvases by M. André three have been lent by the Art institute. As each one is dated as well as titled in the catalog leaflet it is possible to get a survey of the art of this contemporary, beginning with 1903 and ending with 1931.

Of especial interest to this observer because of the subject is the sketch of Renoir in his studio, done in 1916, a study of the famous French painter as an old man. Here all the details are suggested rather than made definite.

The comprehensive collection of canvases by Klee is made up of 83 water colors, oils, etchings, gouaches, and drawings. This Swiss modernist was influenced by the progressive art movement in Europe and with Franz Marc, Kandinsky, and August Macke formed the group called the Blaue Reiter.

James Johnson Sweeney says in introduction to the catalog of this show: "He spoke in a mixed tongue of representational and technical phantasy. These were fused by a remarkably untrammelled sensibility. The result was a curious pictorial poetry all his own."

Miss MacIver's canvases are also done in the nonobjective manner and are as personal to her as Klee's were to him. The Arts club exhibits are open to the public and will continue until Feb. 28.

Here Is First Aid Station for Shoppers

BY REA SEEGER.

One of the newest coördination fashion services is ready! It's a clever stunt operating like a first aid station for shoppers bewildered before the thousands of yards of material available for the spring dressmaking sprees. If you have ever hesitated over what color or what pattern goes with what, here is the promotion idea that gives first aid with smoothness and dispatch. Prints and plain materials, stripes and checks all closely and properly related provide a collection that will banish any possibility of a mistake in color contrast or combine.

For instance, you find the right shade of beige material, say for a coat. From then on it's easy. Anywhere from 4 to 10 printed dress materials in checks, stripes or floral patterns are exactly matched or blended in color to go with the coat fabric. All are late spring and summer materials but the patterns and colors are knockout and the assortments are sensational not only in color but eye appeal. And the knowledge that all these affiliates are officially selected adds to the shopping ease.

Featured are a general background shade of warm, flattering beige, an equally beautiful tone of gray, a stunning brown, the smartest spring blue, one of the most unusual green tones, a lovely violet and then a wide assortment of contrast prints for the dress skirt or lining of the coat.

Dots, plaids, narrow and broad stripes, small geometrics and florals in interesting formations and patterns make up the showings. You'll find the entire promotion features the most exciting print and plain fabric combinations ever presented. The colors are beautiful, fresh, crisp spring shades, the prints the gayest of spring color notes.

U. of C. Revives 'The Armorer,' Lortzing Opera

"THE ARMORER."

BY CECIL SMITH.

For 25 years or more, the comic operas of Lortzing have languished in obscurity in this country. Last evening Lortzing's "The Armorer" was brought back to public notice by a performance at the University of Chicago.

"The Armorer" proved, upon revival, to be considerably superior to some comic operas which have enjoyed public notice in recent years. Our opera houses are still dominated by an Italian tradition, and the only 19th century German comic opera that has a place in the regular repertory is Flotow's "Martha."

While the lightness of its musical mood places "The Armorer" in much the same category as "Martha," it is a work of better musical ideas and generally better artistic craftsmanship than the more familiar work of Flotow. The ensembles are particularly fine, with a masterly interplay among the voices and a wonderfully balanced vocal sonority.

In preparing "The Armorer," Martin Magner, the stage director, had far more ample opportunity for rehearsal than was allotted to him at the Chicago Opera company last fall, and it was revealing to see the expertness with which he brought a continuous air of naturalness to the action, without sacrificing formal design of stylized movement. Siegmund Levarie conducted the score brightly and sympathetically, with an amateur orchestra which played precisely and in tune.

Most of the principals were drawn from the ranks of well known young professional singers. Their grasp of the score was uniformly musical, and the standard of vocal competence was high. Above all, the performance was marked by a spirit of teamwork and a universal willingness to merge individual personalities in the total group artistic endeavor.

"The Armorer," which is given as a part of the university's 50th anniversary celebration, will be repeated tonight.

Critic Enjoys Cossack Chorus Knife Throwing

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The humiliation of sitting completely befuddled while all around me people were clapping their hands off and having the time of their lives was repeated at the Auditorium yesterday afternoon when the General Platoff Don Cossack chorus, Nicholas Kostrukoff conducting, gave its annual Chicago concert.

This tense phrasing and emotion strained tone quality and exactitude of attack must have something to do with music or with delight of some sort, for hundreds of people whose keenness and intelligence cannot be impugned can be kept away from a Cossack concert only by main force. Maybe it is a mistake to expect flow and line and ease in a musical performance. Maybe the Cossacks have something better.

In an effort to understand the charm of Cossack singing I have not only attended innumerable Cossack concerts, but have also burned gallons of midnight oil perusing the occult writers. So far it has all been to no avail—but somewhere, somehow, there must be an answer.

One thing that I could understand and appreciate yesterday was the knife throwing. The Don Cossacks have a man who can put the business end of a dagger in his mouth and then, by a mere jerk of his head, send it point foremost into the floor at a spot several feet away. With equal ease he could impale any one with whom he was annoyed—and once he almost got the foot of one of his fellow Cossacks.

Frankie Fambro, a soprano who is known hereabouts for her work in "The Swing Mikado" and "The Chimes of Normandy," sang a program of old classical, operatic, modern, and Negro music in the Great Northern theater yesterday. Her phrasing and her feeling for tone color commanded admiration. So did the quality of her voice, except where her vibrato grew extreme or where her desire to make a climax on a high, loud note resulted in rough production. Edgar Nelson provided polished piano accompaniments.

Chester Bielski, Chicago violinist, gave a successful recital in Kimball hall last night. His expert coadjutor was the pianist Florence Twomley. The program consisted of a Vivaldi Sonatina, the Brahms D-minor Sonata, the Glazunoff Concerto, and a miscellany of smaller pieces. Except in such confusing places as the finale of the concerto, Mr. Bielski played with easy dexterity and with a wonderfully beautiful tone. His general style was intelligible and dignified.

Feather Industries, Audubon Society Ask Ban on Wild Plumage

New York, Feb. 9 [Special].—An agreement to cease using wild bird plumage for any purpose, including millinery and decorative usage, was announced in a joint declaration today by the National Audubon Society and the Feather Industries of America, Inc., which is composed of 90 per cent of all the manufacturers, dealers and jobbers in the industry.

The agreement provides that, contingent upon new legislation in New York, members of the industry will be permitted for a period of six years to dispose of certain portions of their present inventories of wild bird plumage without adding to them in any way.

Members of the feather industry will turn over to the New York state conservation department all their stocks of bald eagle, golden eagle, egret, bird of paradise, and heron, to be disposed of as the department sees fit.

At the end of the six year period, the declaration provides, all possessors of wild bird plumage will be required to deliver to appropriate state agencies for destruction all their stocks, except what may be in use for personal adornment at the time.

If the legislation is passed in New York, the two bodies will endeavor to have it made uniform thruout the country.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Diary of a Movie Correspondent.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 9.—Sunday—Thru work early, and for a round of golf; dinner at the Vine street Derby and then we go to the Hitching Post theater, Hollywood's newest venture, which seems to be going great guns. The place was jammed, nine-tenths of the audience being between the ages of 15 and 20, mostly males. We watch George O'Brien in a pretty good stage-coach number and Republic's Three Mesquiteers in some amiable mesquite. When the coming attractions trailer announces Gene Autry there's a cheer.

Monday—Lunch with Robert Sisk, who's doing the new Ginger Rogers picture, "Tom, Dick and Harry," and Howard Benedict, who's working up an aviation number called "Parachute Squadron" for R. K. O. Then to see Veronica Lake—real name the attractive one of Constance Keane—who is Paramount's find for "I Wanted Wings." A smart little lady, Miss Lake, and from a test I saw of her I think she's going to make an impressive debut. They sneaked her picture recently, but wouldn't tell where because they didn't want her to see it. But she's the daughter of a newspaper man—a former New York Herald-Tribune artist—and she doggedly did some good reportorial detective work. She heard them say the picture was going on at 8:30 and that executives would leave the studio at 7:30. So she got on the phone and called every theater it would take an hour to drive to. Ultimately she found her preview at Huntington Park—and were the execs surprised to see her there! She thinks the picture is good, doesn't know about herself.

Veronica Lake.

Tuesday—An afternoon of work, and then to Universal to see Margaret Sullavan and Charles Boyer in "Back Street." The picture is beautifully and tastefully done and still the Fanny Hurst tear-getter; the kind of thing everybody says women will love.

Wednesday—To the dentist, and he says two teeth have to come out right now. That shoots the morning and the afternoon goes to the typewriter.

Thursday—For a twice-postponed tour of the Fox lot, and learn that the Steve Hannagans are in town. Harry Brand, 20th Century-Fox publicity head, calls Steve and says the studio has decided to change the title of the Sonja Henie picture from "Sun Valley" to "Snow Valley." It's a gag and it works; I can hear Steve's yelp clear across the desk. . . . Hear that the governor of Florida told Grantland Rice he was writing too much about California, so Granny has pulled out for Miami. . . . To Kenneth MacGowan's office to leave a check for a party local Players are putting on Saturday night at Bel-Air. . . . Hear Jane Withers has a second seven-year contract. She'll be 15 April 12 and has already starred in 36 pictures. . . . So Columbia has bought "Pal Joey," and is bringing George Abbott out to stage it in late spring. I thought George was RKO property. That's Columbia's sixth big musical for this year.

Judy Canova.

Friday—To spend the morning with Gene Autry at his Valley home. The little guy is a big business all by himself. Eight movies and fifty-two broadcasts a year, plus heaven knows how much gravy for songs, records, and endorsements, not to mention an estimated hundred grand for personal appearances at rodeos. Yet he's mild and easygoing and never burried or worried. And he must be the champion souvenir collector and is an autograph hound himself. . . . In the evening to pick up Richard Terry, here from Springfield, and on to dinner and the Ballet Russe. Sol Hurok's touring troupe is doing smash business. There are many new faces, but Massine and Alexandra Danilova seem to me to be the only top rankers, with Roland Guerard almost up there. . . . Then clear back to Beverly Hills for a bout at Chasen's. Ray Bolger there, and says he's been out of "Sunny" with a bad tooth. "Something always happens in Hollywood," he says. "Last time I had my appendix out." . . . Pat O'Brien, who is more than faintly Irish, says that by coincidence his new Fox contract begins March 17. Meanwhile he will make a personal appearance tour to Chicago, Milwaukee, etc.

Saturday—A day at the desk and phone.—Interesting casting note: Republic has signed John Wayne to play opposite Ona Munson in "The Lady from New Orleans." Marlene Dietrich had wanted, but didn't get, Wayne for "The Flame of New Orleans," over at Universal. The two companies ought to get together and have the world's first double bill première down there. . . . Another odd item: Judy Canova has been taking opera lessons for six months and has recorded, with a 60 piece orchestra, an aria from "La Traviata" which may be put into "Sis Hopkins." . . . And so, in the evening, to the Players' shindig.

THE STAGE

More than 500 prominent men and women will gather at the Drake hotel tomorrow noon for a breakfast in celebration of the first anniversary of the Chicago opening of "Life with Father." Guests at the party, which is sponsored by the Chicago Drama league, will include officers of women's clubs and civic groups and members of the Federation of Little Theaters. The special guests will be Lillian Gish and Percy Waram, featured players in the comedy; Mrs. Clarence Day, widow of the author of the sketches from which the play was drawn; Oscar Serlin, the producer, and Russel Crouse, one of the two authors.

Mrs. Day and Miss Gish will be busy attending daily luncheons and parties this week. On Saturday evening at the Blackstone theater a celebration will be give by Mr. Serlin. Those invited include leading personalities of stagé, screen, radio, press, civic affairs, and society.

Good Morning!

Trick photography never did better by a picture than in the case of "The Invisible Woman," where it constitutes practically ALL the shouting.

This is a crackpot of a film presenting John Barrymore as a scientist who has discovered the secret of causing the concrete to become invisible; Virginia Bruce as a discontented model, willing and anxious to act as a guinea pig in the interests [her own] of vengeance; John Howard as a playboy who has been the old professor's "angel"; Charles Ruggles as John's butler; Charles Lane as the mean boss who learns about women from—the invisible woman—and a supporting cast of able players who enter heartily into the spirit of the crazy production.

The scenes during which the unseen Miss Bruce pursues her remarkable activities are rowdy and often quite amusing. Mr. Barrymore—in a whopping good makeup!—performs with zest and many an aside. John Howard is properly unbelieving, flabbergasted and romantic by turns. . . . Miss Bruce—when in evidence—is a treat to the eyes. . . . Other players all please.

The movie is brief and was directed with snap.

See you tomorrow.

Who Is This Girl?

By Helen Topping Miller

[Copyright 1941: By Helen Topping Miller.]

SYNOPSIS.

Dan McCullough, manager of the ranch, San Mateo, comes to New York to see Harp Greenlee, owner of the ranch, and Steele Dunlap, Harp's lawyer. He tells them the ranch needs money to fight Humphrey Dane, as Dane is trying to shut off their water supply and is suspected of stealing their sheep. While he is there, Mac meets Storm, beautiful 20 year old girl, whom Harp introduces as his niece. Mac falls in love with Storm, but when Beatrice Abney, whose artist ex-husband is drinking himself to death near San Mateo, tells Mac that Storm is staying at Harp's home, he is worried, as he knows Harp's reputation with women and has heard him introduce many women of shady character as his nieces. He goes to Harp's apartment to have it out with him as to just who Storm is and finds him dead. Storm tells Mac that Harp placed her in a convent when she was 5, after her mother died, and had promised to tell her who she was when she was 21. Harp's will is read and Mac has been left Harp's horse and $1,000. Storm was left San Mateo and a locked tin box without a key. When Dunlap tells Storm of the will and hints that it is Harp's way of paying off his latest girl, Storm becomes infuriated and realizes that all Harp's friends including Mac were suspicious of her relation to Harp. She refuses her inheritance, pawns a necklace and goes back to the convent. Dunlap follows her there and tries in vain to persuade Mother Regina to let him see Storm. Then an older man calls at the convent, claiming to be Storm's father, and Storm leaves with him two days before Mac and Beatrice Abney call at the convent. Mother Regina refuses to tell them the name of the man claiming to be Storm's father. Mac learns that Dunlap has flown to San Mateo and follows him.

INSTALMENT XXV.

NEW BOSS.

Old Bart came toward Mac hesitantly, and in his old face was on odd, stunned look that made his mouth slack and his eyes a little wild.

"Where's Plume?" he demanded.

Plume came around the corner of the house, scrubbing his neck with a towel.

"I'm here. What's busted?"

"Hell's busted!" old Bart's voice cracked with something like consternation. "Know where I took that lawyer hombre? Know where he wanted to go? Up to Dane's place! Drove Harp's truck on Dane's land—he made me do it. And that ain't all. Know who's going to be running this place? Know who's going to be boss of San Mateo?"

"Him?" asked Plume while Mom's troubled face stared from the doorway. "That lawyer?"

"Dunlap? No! He ain't going to run this place. And none of us ain't going to run it. The boss of this here ranch, from now on," Bart's voice rose almost to a scream and his eyes glared, "is that low down coyote—Humphrey Dane!"

McCullough stood stunned.

"Humphrey Dane?" he repeated.

"That's what they told us," insisted old Bart Williams. "That lawyer grinned as smooth as a coyote and said to tell you boys that you'd be taking your orders from Dane from now on."

"Not me," said Mom Terrell grimly, "and not Plume, neither."

"Wait a minute," McCullough looked dazed. "There's something crazy somewhere. Harp left his ranch to a girl. She has disappeared and now Steele Dunlap is putting over something. I knew he was double crossing Harp. I felt it all along. He was too smooth. He got himself appointed guardian for this girl and now he's selling her out. Well, he won't get away with it. Lank, saddle up that dun horse. I'm going over there."

"You wait till morning, Mac," Mom argued. "You'll wait till you cool off. Dane's bad—suit him fine to start a war here on this river."

"No, I won't wait. I'm going now. I'll get to the bottom of this, and if there's as much crookedness at the bottom as I think there is, somebody's likely to get hurt."

"You take Lank along, then," Plume worried. "You take somebody for a witness. You can't go up against two crooks like them by yourself."

"I won't involve anybody else. I'm thru here anyway, Plume. Nothing that can happen to me will change things. Throw a bedroll over the saddle, Lank, and Mom, you put some coffee and grub in pack. It's a long way over there. I may not get back tonight. And don't worry about me. I'll take care of myself."

Grumbling, the Terrells tramped off, Mom to her kitchen, Plume following Lank to the corral. Old Bart slumped on the edge of the porch, rolling a cigaret. He had been on San Mateo longer than any one except the Terrells. He had been Harp's top hand before rheumatism crippled him.

"What can you do, Mac?" he asked.

"I don't know yet, but I'll keep Dunlap from getting away with this, if I can."

"I'm glad Harp ain't around. He sure would have raised hell with Lank for driving the truck on Dane's land."

Plume and Lank came back, leading the big dun. They left the horses standing, followed Mac into his room, where he went to change into riding clothes.

"Hang a gun onto you, too, Mac."

"No, I don't want a gun. If there's trouble it won't be that kind of trouble."

"Dane's tough, but a poke in the eye would settle that lawyer fellow."

"This isn't something that can be slugged out, Lank. Somehow Steele has twisted the law around so that it's on their side. We'll have to fight them their own way, but one thing's certain. They aren't going to rob that girl."

"Who is this girl, anyway?" Bart demanded.

"Yellow-haired kid Harp picked up some place," Lank drawled. "Right cute little trick. Mac took a shine to her, I could see that."

"That's got nothing to do with it," Mac flared, jerking on his old corduroys. "It's a question of right and wrong. Dane may not know the difference, but I'll teach him, one way or another."

Plume went out, and came back presently, as Mac was ready to mount, riding his big bay.

"I'm going a piece with you," Plume announced. "Far as Dane's, anyway. I wouldn't put it past Dane to send some of his greasers out to hide around and watch out for trouble. If one of 'em had a gun and cracked down on a rider, careless like, it would be a pure accident and lots of regret about it; greaser thought it was a rustler, of course. I know that den of snakes over there, know 'em of old. Don't you take no chances."

"Be dark pretty quick, anyhow," Lank studied the sky. "Kinda looks like a norther making up over towards them hills. Throw your poncho over that bedroll, Mac. You may need it."

Slim and taut and stern faced in his heavy clothes and highheeled boots, a wide hat jerked over his eyes, Mac swung into the saddle, took the pack from Mom at the kitchen door, and loped off, Plume following doggedly behind.

The sky had grown sullen, and the sun was going down in a flat, sulphurous glare behind the mountains to the west. The days were growing shorter now, and under the quick feet of the horse the dry grass bent and rustled. The cattle they passed stood with hind quarters humped to windward, bunched in huddled groups, head down.

"Weather on the way, sure," Plume remarked, as a dozen steers scattered before them.

They crossed the dry bed of the river, and McCullough looked at the chalky walls of the eroded river bed and thought with bitterness that now Dane would probably change his plans for the dam and the irrigation ditch. If he could control San Mateo he might not wish to destroy the value of the ranch.

Consolidated with Dane's property, it would make an empire, and Humphrey Dane was the type to dream of empires.

When they had ridden 10 miles, Mac halted. "You'd better go back, Plume. It's too dark for anybody to spot me now. Have Lank and the boys get the horses up and put that sorrel in the barn. That horse was left to me, in Harp's will."

"Fifty good horses, and he left you one that ain't no earthly use! What you figuring on doing with him. Ride him in a parade or something?"

"Sell him, maybe. Some woman might ride him. Anyway, he won't know how to take care of himself if weather breaks."

"Somebody sure took Harp when he sold him that hoss. Reckon I'd better get the boys out first thing in the morning and throw out some hay. Them merinos have picked the grass mighty short on that south pasture."

"So long, Plume."

"Don't you get into nothing you can't fight out of. And if they crowd you, you yell. There's seven of us, counting Plantamora, and we've been itching for a war with that Dane outfit for a long time."

Plume turned and rode off into the dusk that was swallowing the land eastward. The dun nickered in protest, but swung back into the cattle trail along the river when McCullough nudged him with the spur. Dark was thickening now, and the air chilled and pressed low with a feeling of uneasiness in it, that made the dun horse shiver and jerk at the rein. Then as McCullough rode up the rough slope of a ridge, a cold dash of rain struck, blowing sidewise, cutting like shot. The horse sidled and snorted, tucked down his head and pushed on.

The rain came faster almost at once, and with it black darkness, dropping from a roiled unrest of heavy clouds overhead. A wind came up out of the murky wildness of sky, and dragged at Mac's hat, whipped the dun's mane, but the trailwise horse kept to the dim track, stepping warily in the rubbly waste of loose rock and cedar roots.

They were crossing a black stretch of worthless land, where little grass grew and the soil was torn by the periodical rampages of the river.

GASOLINE ALLEY—LOOKING FORWARD

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Perish the Thought

Fashion Weds Beauty in the Chic of 1941

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

As we may have been heard to say before, it is difficult these days to say where fashion ceases and beauty begins, or vice versa, whether there is any dropping off place for either fashion or beauty. There's so much in dress, shoes, bags, hats, suits, furs, colors, lines, accessories from which a fair degree of beauty is drawn. There is so much in makeup, in coiffure, in silhouette molding and remolding, nail beauty, foot smartness, good legs for dressing with sheer hosiery that beauty contributes equally to the fashion parade.

That's the 1941 smart girl, not made of sugar and spice, but of style and beauty, in such proportions as best suits the individual person.

Remember this when you go shopping for your Easter outfit. Determine your coiffure style for the hat that will top it. Remember that lines and color do a great deal for a silhouette that may be found wanting. Remember that you may break out in a new color of frock, a younger, brighter, gayer color, provided you turn the trick with a complementary makeup scheme. Don't, in other words, detach yourself, your personal self, from that hat, dress, suit, bag you see that catches your eye merely on its own and separate appeal. That's not the trick of a 1941 belle. The hat, the dress, and so on, are hers only if they are hers by right of complimentary rating.

Custard is one of the most suitable desserts for children, and most adults like it now and then, too. Nutritious and digestible, custard shouldn't be considered "baby food." It's one of the best foods for the whole family. Vitamins A, B-1, C, and G are well represented in a cup custard.

A tender custard is one which has been baked at a low temperature. Too much heat causes poor texture and often a watery separation which makes the custard unappetizing. Usually cup custards are placed in a pan of water while they cook, so that the heat won't become too intense.

PLAIN CUP CUSTARDS.
[Six]
4 eggs, slightly beaten
⅓ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 quart milk, scalded
1 teaspoon vanilla
Nutmeg

Combine eggs, sugar, and salt. Add milk slowly, mixing well. Add vanilla. Pour into custard cups and sprinkle with nutmeg. Set in a pan of warm water and place in a 325 degree oven until custards are firm. Insert a knife to test for doneness. When knife comes out clean, custards are baked. It will take about 35 to 40 minutes, as a rule.

The plain, baked custards are good cold or warm, with or without a sauce. It's usually better to omit the sauce for children, but a butterscotch, chocolate or fruit sauce makes a custard more appealing to the average adult.

A fresh, canned, or frozen fruit, chopped and with its own juices, makes the best custard sauce, I think. A simple way to make a caramel sauce right with the custard is to butter the custard cups rather thickly and cover the bottoms of them with brown sugar before putting in the custard mix. When the baked custards are turned out of the cups, we have a nice, caramelly, brown topping for them.

Here's a custard dessert which is cake and custard, too, so it couldn't possibly be classified as "baby food."

LADY FINGER CUSTARD DESSERT.
[Serves five]
1 dozen lady fingers
Currant jelly
2 eggs, separated
¼ cup sugar
1¼ cups scalded milk
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup cold milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Split the lady fingers, spread them with currant jelly, and place together again. Line a buttered, eight inch casserôle or baking pan with them. Beat egg yolks slightly, add sugar and scalded milk. Dissolve cornstarch in cold milk and add. Cook mixture over low heat, or in the top of a double boiler, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add vanilla. Pour over lady fingers. Beat whites of egg with salt until stiff and gradually beat in lemon juice and sugar. Cover custard with the meringue. Bake at 325 degrees for 15 minutes.

Feb. 10, 1941.

Universal day—Don't let this day be too personal. You are likely to let your feelings overrule your judgment.

February—If you are in a nine-year this month is one in which feelings play a large part, so try to keep your heart out of issues which come up. Try to look at things impersonally and take a long range view. You will be likely to see just the immediate little things which annoy you, and there is the likelihood of too much confusion and chaos in your everyday routine. An undecisive period when nerves tend to be jittery and you are too sensitive. Since the whole year is one that has to be handled wisely, this month can start you on the wrong foot emotionally. Be long-suffering and patient.

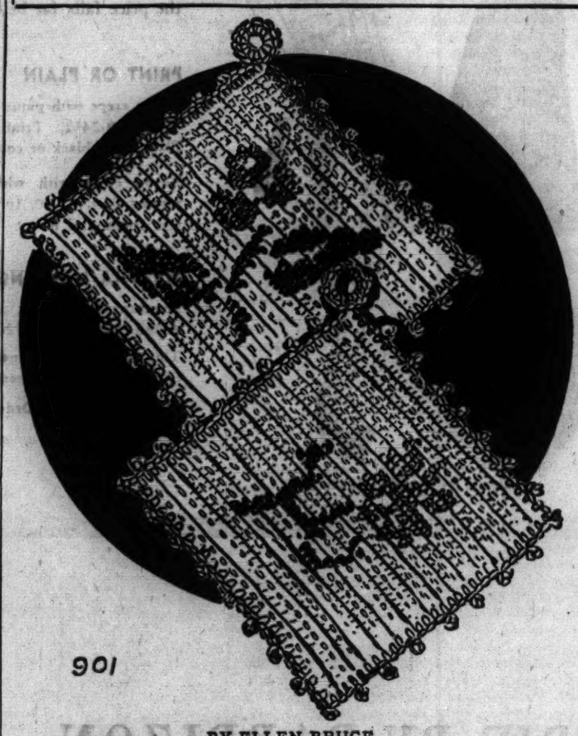
Crocheted Pot Holders



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

There is great pleasure in crocheting pot holders, which are the envy of friends and neighbors. These clever rose pot holders are worked with a white background and rose flowers and green leaves. It is not a difficult crochet job and one which proves one's ability as a needleworker. It is easy to carry colors across rows, and the entire holder is worked in single crochet with a simple picot edging. The instructions include detailed graphs from which even the novice may work.

For instructions in crocheting the rose pot holders, No. 901, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

For years all expert players observed the normal minimum requirements of two and one-half honor tricks for an opening bid, yet they always have made one exception, and a recent poll which I conducted among a group of ranking experts proved that they are making that exception today more often than ever. The exception is this: They reduce the honor trick requirements somewhat when they have a long major suit and an unbalanced hand.

My job was to translate this into a precise formula which is easy to remember and which works out well in play. It forms one of the basic changes in the new improved Culbertson system.

You may make an opening bid of one in a six-card major suit with two-plus honor tricks.

Because we now are able to count a singleton in the hand as a plus value, this permits an opening bid of one spade on the following hand, which experts always have considered biddable:

♠A10 8 7 6 2 ♥6 ♦KQ96 ♣54

Such a bid should not be made in a six-card minor suit, for it is then too easy for the opponents to outbid you. Having a major suit is a great advantage in competitive bidding. With a minor suit you should stick to the full requirements of two and one-half honor tricks.

TODAY'S HAND

South, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

♣J 10 6

SOUTH

♣A Q 9 8 7 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 spade	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
3 spades	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
5 clubs	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's energetic bidding was warranted by the strength of his hand. His three heart bid was perfectly normal and his jump to five clubs was well chosen. South's bidding had shown a six-card club suit and a five-card spade suit; South, therefore, could have only two cards in the red suits. North's shortness in diamonds indicated that South was quite likely to have two diamonds and no hearts and most unlikely to have two hearts and no diamonds. North's diamond tops, therefore, would be quite useful to South at a club contract. North, furthermore, had an excellent fit for a six-card club suit and his shortness in spades promised to be a help to declarer, if it were necessary for him to establish the spade suit by ruffing.

West opened the queen of diamonds, dummy winning with the king. After some thought, declarer cashed the ace of diamonds and discarded the ace of hearts! Now the queen of hearts was led from dummy and, when East played low, South discarded a spade.

Had West taken his king of hearts, declarer would have been able to draw three rounds of trumps, ending in the dummy, after which the rest of dummy's hearts would have furnished discards for all of his losing spades. But the situation was very clear to West and he rose nobly to the occasion by refusing to take his king of hearts! The heart jack then was led and passed, and again West politely conceded the trick.

Having "ditched" two spades, declarer now assumed [mistakenly] that he was on safe ground. He tried the spade finesse. It lost, and South soon found that he could not ruff his remaining spade loser without setting up a trump trick for East.

South should have persisted with his original plan, leading a third heart from dummy. If East ruffed [the best defense] declarer could over-ruff, cash the ace and king of trumps, then ruff another heart. Now, with a trump and good hearts in dummy, he could safely concede a spade trick.

Much Conversation Intended for Adults Hurtful to Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

There's an older friend with whom I enjoy discussing children whenever we're together. She has what you might call unorthodox but often very wise ideas about how children's personalties develop as they grow older.

But let me make some remark such as: "Muriel's whole grownup life has been colored by those early years of hardship and her parents' quarrels"; or "Johnny Junior is hearing too much talk of death and sickness. He's getting nervous and apprehensive." She'll say: "O, well, Muriel was an unusually sensitive child," or "Johnny's too curious and listens too much.

I think other persons, too, are likely to dismiss a particular case in this way. They believe that such children are unusual and therefore one can't use their reactions as a guide.

And there is where we disagree.

Of course, ALL children don't take on family money worries and conflicts as Muriel did. And, of course, ALL boys aren't like Johnny, equally shadowed by talk of illness and death, but enough children are affected so that we can decidedly say that it's bad for children to hear and see in excess the things the two children did; and that parents should avoid airing all their troubles before their children, and conversing about anything and everything that they would talk about with another adult.

Institute of Decorators Will Give Movie Benefit.

Chicago decorators, who last fall held a smash benefit for British war relief in the form of a war relief shop, are busy with plans for another type of benefit. It will be the opening of a new newsreel theater, "Today," on the night of Feb. 28, under the sponsorship of the American Institute of Decorators. The proceeds this time will be used as prizes for the interior decorating classes at the Art institute, and for the Decorators' William H. Moore Benevolent fund.

The James Ward Thornes, the Alfred Shaws, Walter Frazier, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill, II., are some of those helping the decorators with plans for the opening party. A fashion show will be included on the program that night, and prize winning drawings submitted in an Art institute students' contest will be hung in the lobby. Also on view will be photographs of recent works of various decorators. Some of the decorators on the committee are Miss D. Lorraine Yerkes, Miss Cornelia Conger, and Ernst C. von Ammon.

The American Opera society has cards out for a recital by Miss Ruth Gourlay, composer-pianist, and Robert W. Kessler, tenor, on Feb. 24, at the Arts club. The program will be given at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Pen Valentine Verses of Love and Safety, Too

The Greater Chicago Safety council, whose aim is to safeguard the physical well being of its fellow men, has devised a neat little liaison between Cupid and Old Man Safety as its contribution to the observance of Valentine's day next Friday.

"Love and the safety of loved ones go hand in hand," council officers announced, "so why not blend our safety advice with hearts and flowers and turn out a safety valentine?"

Nobody said not to, so they did. For instance:

Keep your wits about you, baby,
When you cross the street.
Be my Cautious Valentine,
I love you best complete.

Or, from father to mother:

When you polish the floors, Ma,
Watch out for the wax.
I need you next month
For my income tax.

For the exceptionally giddy girl friend from her faint-hearted boy friend this is recommended:

Don't take any chances, my darling, my dear-o;
Don't fiddle with fire, as did Mr. Nero.
Keep both eyes open, both feet on the ground,
And keep a cool head when I'm not around.

Other possibilities include such gems as:

I love you now, I love you then;
I love you where, I love you when;
I love you sad, I love you chareful;
But most of all I love you careful.

Or:

Valentine, Valentine, open the door;
Not AFTER the car starts, but surely before.
Tho cold air we curse,
Monoxide is worse,
And pulmotor squads are a bore.

There are others available, scads of them, but there's no use painting the picture too black. Nobody wants to see the city's postmen hunted down like rabbits on St. Valentine's day. It would defeat the whole purpose of the council's plan.

Doris Vetoes Matrimonial Agency Union

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

Occasionally we receive a request for information on matrimonial agencies and, curiously enough, the requests invariably come from men.

To settle that angle immediately, we hereby declare that we refuse absolutely to be party to such a means of acquiring a life partner. We could not, and would not, assume the responsibility of throwing a couple together under the too often dubious auspices of such organizations.

With that out of the way, we proceed in an attempt to analyze the reason or reasons for seeking matrimonial solace under such circumstances. Why should a man have to appeal to so foreign a source for recommendation as a husband? Why, in his own community, can not he attract the interest of some fair person?

Is he of such inferiority laden stuff that he cannot bring himself to approach an acquaintance in an attempt to interest her? Naturally, one is forced to ask, are his intentions "on the level?" Does he hope, thru this blind route, to intrigue a fortune in the hands, perhaps, of some woman of otherwise hopeless charms? Or is he just a dreamer who believes that there's that perfect woman somewhere awaiting his arrival?

Our reaction, right or wrong, is to suspect the inquiring man of some obscure motive, or of some perhaps not-so-obscure shortcoming known in his own community. It isn't reasonable that a man seeking marriage cannot find some woman willing to share his lot if his reputation and standing in a community are good.

If it is excessive meekness on the inquiring man's part, he's better off putting his faith in some woman who has known him long and is aware of his better qualities. If he's a dreamer who looks to the green hills to produce a miracle, he'd better know the woman near by is more promising dream stuff. But he'd better stop dreaming and go get his woman after the conventional pattern of courting and wooing her as men have done whose marriages he envies.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Golden Gloves novices begin the north section campaign tonight in Loyola gymnasium. With bouts going on simultaneously in two rings, the spectators are assured of continuous action thruout the evening. The fighting will continue for three successive nights. When the last blow falls on Wednesday, the big sectional field will be cut down to 16 boxers—two in each weight division. These youngsters will be eligible for the Chicago open division tournament in the Coliseum Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week.

The more seasoned fighters already are pointing for the Coliseum engagements, which will determine the eight city title holders who will go up against the best boxers of 23 states in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 24-25-26. Three of Chicago's representatives—Harold Dade, Savior Canadeo, and Cornelius Young—went on to Golden Gloves titles last year. Dade is back again to defend his flyweight title.

The ticket sales for the Chicago city finals, the Tournament of Champions, and the Chicagoland finals will open today at the Tribune's Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street.

16 Centers to Pick Champions.

This will be a busy week thruout the vast Golden Gloves area. Sixteen more out of town teams will be chosen, the heaviest action being concentrated in Indiana, where finals will be held in five towns—Richmond, Fort Wayne, Terre Haute, Evansville, and Indianapolis.

There will be fighting in 17 of the out of town centers tonight, the most important event being the Richmond finals. Terre Haute will run off its semi-finals. Alexandria, La., and Moline, Ill., will hold their quarter-finals. Preliminary rounds will be held in the other towns. Only three of the teams have been picked so far, but between now and a week from Saturday all of the 40 others will be lined up ready to converge on Chicago from all points of the compass for the greatest boxing show in amateur sport.

A Big Chance for Novices.

SHEA WINS GOLF TITLE

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 9 (AP).—Merv Shea, coach of the Detroit Tigers, defeated Lloyd Brown today in the finals of the sixth annual baseball players' golf championship, 2 and 1, on the Jungle club course. Shea shot the eight concluding holes of the 36 hole duel in 434—433—44, two strokes under par.

Brown, who hopes to pitch for the Phillies this season but hasn't yet received a contract, apparently had the former White Sox catcher beaten leaving the 28th hole. In six holes Shea went from 3 down to 2 up, winning five of the six as Brown, a typical lefthander, wandered all over the frost bitten layout.

Shea finally squared it on the 500 yard 31st hole, where he clouted one off the top of a bunker to within eight feet of the cup and then downed it.

Jack Kramer, Bobby Riggs Gain Florida Tennis Final

West Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 9 (AP).—Jack Kramer of Los Angeles today gained the final of the South Florida tennis tournament by eliminating Hal Surface of Kansas City, 6-4, 6-2. Bobby Riggs of Chicago was forced to three sets to win the other semi-final from Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., 7-5, 2-6, 6-2.

The Joys of Yesterday.

I helped you put your skates on long ago,
That day we went together to the park.
And hand in hand we skated till the snow
Fell thick around us and the eve grew dark;
And then we had some coffee and a bun
For which I gladly paid my only dime;
You told me you had never had such fun,
And thanked me for a very happy time.
How simple were the joys of yesterday!
And yet how full of laughter, how sincere!
Before sophistication came our way
Scorning our homely pleasures with its sneer!
O give me back the old days that I knew—
A lake, a pair of skates, a dime, and you!

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The New York Rangers, champions of the hockey world, made their final regular appearance of the season in these parts last night, and to the vociferous displeasure of the 15,879 clients who crowded into Chicago Stadium, left an unhappy memento in the form of a 2 to 1 decision over the Blackhawks.

The champions also left with a variety of feelings aside from the result. Their Davie Kerr, king of the goalies, knew that he had been in a hockey game, especially insofar as Doug Bentley, the Hawks' little sharpshooter, was concerned. The luckless Doug was stopped by Kerr on a dozen close-up shots. Big Babe Pratt, the Rangers' defense man, departed with the unanimous scorn of Hawk adherents for his bullying of lighter opponents.

Take Fourth Place.

But the Rangers did have the more valuable satisfaction of having broken the fourth place tie that had existed between them and the Hawks at last night's first faceoff. They now hold that position by 2 points over the Chicagoans and trail the third place Detroit Red Wings by only one game. Furthermore, they show a more respectable average against the Hawks, who had won four and tied one before the Rangers finally licked them in New York last Thursday. The two meet in their final scheduled game in Madison Square Garden on Feb. 23.

Referee Frank Clancy assessed ten penalties during last night's activity, but at that was quite lenient, considering the aforesaid jostling of the Hawks by Pratt.

Two Involved in Scoring.

Two of the penalties were involved in the scoring. Bryan Hextall of the New Yorkers was incarcerated for cross checking Joe Cooper in the first period, but that didn't prevent the visitors from making the first goal. Mac Colville and Lynn Patrick broke from a Hawk assault on the Ranger nets, and altho Earl Seibert did a noble job of trying to protect Sam Lo Presti, Colville finally beat the latter in 16:44.

The Hawk following had to wait until midway thru the second period before the score was tied, with the aid of a Ranger penalty. Lynn Patrick was the culprit, being deported for hooking. On the first face off after his exit, Bob Carse, Johnny Chad, and Bill Thoms collaborated, with Bob beating Kerr in 9:15.

It's a Fire Wagon Pace.

From this point on, until Clint Smith, who is more than taking the injured Phil Watson's place, scored the deciding goal, the boys went at a fire wagon pace. Just after Alf Pike, Cooper, and Mac Colville had returned to the ice after doing a stretch in the penalty box, Pratt elbowed his way into Hawk territory, and passed to Smith who backhanded a 10 footer past the diving Lo Presti.

HOLD 2D MEETING ON NOTRE DAME COACH TONIGHT

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 9 [Special].—The Rev. John Cavanaugh, C. S. C., vice president of Notre Dame and chairman of the faculty board in control of athletics, tonight said a successor had not been named to replace Elmer Layden as Notre Dame's head football coach and director of athletics. Layden resigned last Monday to become commissioner of the National Football league.

Father Cavanaugh said the faculty board will meet again tomorrow night to consider candidates for the vacancy, and that another meeting probably will be held Wednesday to give the board time to consider the qualifications of all those under consideration. When the board has completed its survey of candidates, it will make a recommendation to the Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of the university.

Until the board makes such a recommendation, Father O'Donnell will not take any steps to offer the job to any one. Veteran observers on the campus who are familiar with the procedure in such cases believe no announcement of the new coach's appointment will be made before the end of the week, at the earliest.

It is accepted that the new coach and director of athletics will be a former Notre Dame athlete who has achieved success in the coaching profession. Altho the faculty board has made no announcement of candidates, former Notre Dame stars who are considered leading candidates include Lawrence J. [Buck] Shaw, Santa Clara coach; Arthur J. [Dutch] Bergman, coach at Catholic university; Frank Leahy, coach at Boston college; Joe Boland, present line coach at Notre Dame; Charles E. [Gus] Dorais, coach at Detroit, and Maurice [Clipper] Smith, Villanova coach.

DEMONS TURN BACK RIVALS' LATE THREAT

Hold 24 to 15 Lead at Half Time.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

De Paul university's basketball team won the Chicago championship and its second consecutive victory in the seven game series with Loyola, its north side rival, last night in the Coliseum, 37 to 34.

A near capacity crowd—official attendance was announced as 7,446—was attracted to the battle in charity's name and by bitter athletic contention between the two universities. The spectators saw one more brilliant page in the series which centered around the uphill fight of Loyola's shorter boys to catch up with De Paul after the Blue Demons had established an early advantage which gave them a 24 to 15 halftime lead.

Loyola Ties Game—Briefly.

Loyola's ambition finally was realized when, with only 3 minutes and 15 seconds to play, Jack Stanton's free throw on Ed Sachs' fourth personal foul deadlocked the score at 32 to 32. But almost before the first roar had subsided from the jammed south stands, where Loyola's students chanted for victory, De Paul's co-captain and veteran center, Elmer Gainer, rushed under his own backboard for the goal that left the Demons in control. Ed Bogdanski's free throw lengthened the lead to three points.

With hundreds ringing the court and with all the Loyola substitutes crowded in front of the timer's table waiting to halt the clock in turn for a forlorn cause, the battle developed into a drawn out and futile attempt to tie.

Ramblers' Strategy Fails.

Twice in the closing minutes Jack Dwan of Loyola stepped to the penalty line for two shots. Each time he made the first and Loyola then declined the second to keep possession and try for a tying field goal. Before the battle of wits ended Loyola had declined three free throws and again it was Gainer's penalty shot on George Wenskus' fourth personal which established the final score after Bogdanski had made another point for De Paul on Mike Dougherty's fourth foul.

Loyola's set attack was under constant handicap of De Paul's height, but until the closing minutes the Ramblers' Dougherty did much to neutralize De Paul's advantage. He consistently outjumped Gainer and made a complete nuisance of himself to De Paul's superiority on rebounds.

O'Rourke Sparks De Paul.

Carter O'Rourke repeatedly held De Paul's quintet together when the team threatened to disintegrate under steady pressure by Loyola.

Since 1937 the schools have met under the auspices of the Catholic Youth organization. Net receipts are donated to the C. Y. O. needy youth fund.

At the intermission the Purdue university alumni club of Chicago presented the Noble E. Kizer Memorial trophy to William Freewalt, De Paul academy star half back last fall. Freewalt was named the most valuable player in the Catholic league. He was congratulated personally by Mal Elward, who succeeded Kizer as director of athletics and football coach at Purdue. A similar trophy already has been awarded by Ray Florek of Fenger, who was named the most valuable player in the Chicago Public School league.

In a preliminary Leo High, winner of 24 out of 25 games this season, defeated Central Catholic of Fort Wayne, Ind., 44 to 39. Leo took a 13 to 3 lead which came in handy when Fort Wayne rallied in the third and fourth quarters. Even so, Leo only led, 28 to 25, at the start of the final period.

Golden Gloves Action Moves to North Side

this year. Up until last season, these youngsters fought thru a tournament of their own, but now 32 of them—16 from the south and 16 from the north—become eligible to go right in with the open division fighters and try their skill in tough competition. This gives them an opportunity for gaining much greater experience—and ever so often one comes up with enough skill to give trouble to a seasoned opponent.

The south side novice contingent took shape last week with the running off of the tournament in St. Sabina gymnasium. For three nights the youngsters entertained capacity crowds. Equally good performances are expected during the three forthcoming sessions in Loyola gymnasium. Season after season the north section events have been particularly spectacular, and judging by the size of the entry list and the enthusiasm of the contestants, this year's event will be no exception.

Determine Chicago's Best.

The policy of putting all of Chicago's open division fighters together for one big tournament in the Coliseum worked out very satisfactorily last season. In previous years as many as five fighters in each weight division went directly from Chicago's sectional and C. Y. O. events into the Tournament of Champions. As a result, it was never clearly established just who was the best Chicago fighter in each weight division.

Next week's bouts in the Coliseum will decide the matter definitely. Nearly every good amateur in town will be in that tournament, and the boys who come out on top will be well fitted to represent this city in any kind of battle.

9:45—Allen Hall vs. Welker Cochran.

Willie Hoppe, world's three cushion billiard champion, didn't win a match yesterday—for the simple reason that the contestants in Bensinger's arena took a day off for the first time since the tournament started last month.

They will be back at their chores today, with Hoppe trying for his 13th consecutive victory in the first evening match at 8 o'clock against Art Rubin, who is proving himself the classiest of the newcomers. Rubin has won 9 and lost 4, including a victory over Jake Schaefer, who with Jay Bozeman, is tied for second place with 10 triumphs and two setbacks. Schaefer and Bozeman, who have yet to meet Hoppe, are the main threats to the silver-haired champion.

Hoppe, with five games remaining to play, will be in action every night until the cue marathon ends Friday evening. In all there are 21 matches yet to be played. In the other evening match, Allen Hall and Welker Cochran clash.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 9 (AP).—The Boston Bruins extended their undefeated National Hockey league streak to 18 games tonight by coming from behind to gain a 2 to 2 overtime tie with the Detroit Red Wings. In pulling up to within one game of the league mark of 19 consecutive games without a loss, compiled last year by the New York Rangers, the Bruins moved within one point of a first place tie with the idle Toronto Maple Leafs.

On the defensive most of the way, the Bruins saw the Red Wings take a 2 to 0 lead by scoring in each of the first two periods.

12,692 See Game.

As a crowd of 12,692 roared, the Red Wings appeared well on the way to upsetting the Bruins when Joe Fisher sent the puck flying past Goalie Frank Brimsek in 12:01 of the first period and Carl Liscombe added another goal in the second period.

From the third period on, Boston dominated play. Jack Crawford scored less than two minutes after coming out onto the ice, and then Eddie Wiseman deadlocked the count with a whistling shot past Goalie Johnny Mowers a few moments later.

The Bruins started their streak here Dec. 22. It now includes 11 victories and seven ties.

AMERICANS WIN OVERTIME

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—Apparently beaten when behind, 3 to 0, half way thru the game, the New York Americans surged back with a burst of scoring power to defeat the Montreal Canadiens, 6 to 3, in an overtime National Hockey league match tonight.

A crowd of 10,972 saw the Americans score three goals in the overtime. Charlie Conacher of the Americans was off the ice on a tripping penalty when Pat Egan and Lorne Carr worked a passing play thru the Canadiens' defense for the winning goal, scored by Carr. Then Pete Slobodian and Wilf Field each broke away for a solo goal before the overtime was finished. Lineups:

WALLY ZALE WINS MIDGET TITLE; FAILS TO FINISH

Wally Zale of Chicago won the national indoor midget auto racing championship at the International Amphitheater last night, tho failing to finish in the 100-lap special event which climaxed the final program of events.

In a wild race, with numerous collisions and spins bringing minor injuries to several of the drivers and pitmen, Art Hartsfeld of Toledo, O., won the 100-lap contest in 16 minutes 7 seconds, a new track record. Following him across the finish line come Bob Muhlke, Evanston, second; Pete Nielsen, Los Angeles, third; Ray Richards, Highland Park, fourth, and Cowboy O'Rourke, Chicago, fifth. Twelve cars raced in the feature.

Zale had a handy lead when forced out of the race at 25 laps. His car took fire, Wally suffering burns on his legs. Then Teddy Duncan of Chicago, who could have won the championship, was forced out of the lead and race at 63 laps when his car tangled with Harry MacQuinn's.

Four Trap Shooters Tie for Lincoln Park Lead

The weekly skeet shoot at the Lincoln park traps yesterday ended in a four way tie for first place in class AAA. Those who tied with 50 apiece were: Ralph Mell, Harry Altice, W. D. Cox, and M. J. Tennes. Class AA was captured by Claude Winterrowd with 49. J. L. Younghusband, and C. A. Tilt shattered 48 each to tie for first place in class A. William Cline won in Class C with 47, and Floyd Millis broke 41 in class C to win first place.

Vic Ronchetti and Elaine Bogda Gordon were crowned the 1941 city champions yesterday in Humboldt park as the outdoor speed skating schedule came to an end. The Northwest Skating club won the team title of its own meet by edging out the C. Y. O., 440 to 420 points.

Miss Bogda captured the title in handy fashion in winning the 220 and half mile, while Ronchetti's victory in the 220 and second places in the half and one and a half mile events resulted in his successful defense of his championship. Bob Heckenbach, second to Ronchetti in the standings, won the one and a half mile, placed second in the 220 yard dash and was third in the half mile. The latter event was won by Leo Freisinger, former national and North American champion.

Slow Ice Hampers Field.

Bad ice conditions made the going tough as the skaters stumbled thru the soft course and many of the winners went down during the events and still got up to win. Thus the times of the races were much slower than usual.

Slides over the finish line were numerous to the delight of the crowd of 6,000. One of the thrillers of the day was the juvenile girls' 440 yard event. Little Mixie Kitazaki, Japanese-American youngster, showed stamina as well as speed in defeating the favorite, Mary Allen, who fell but recovered and finished. The time of 1:02.2 was considered good.

CAWTHON SEEKS POST AS COACH OF DETROIT LIONS

Pete Cawthon, former coach of Texas Tech, yesterday made a personal bid to Fred Mandel, owner of the Detroit Lions, to lead his eleven in the National Football league next season.

"We had a very satisfactory talk," said Cawthon, who was confined to his loop hotel room because of a cold. He will leave for his home in Lubbock, Tex., this morning by plane, but will return within a week for another conference.

Cawthon recently withdrew as a candidate for the Philadelphia Eagles' vacant coaching post because he could not obtain permission to name his own assistants. He especially wants to take along his assistant coach, Dutchy Smith, when he makes a connection.

The Detroit vacancy was created by the resignation of George [Potsy] Clark.

Wildcats and Badgers Meet in Evanston

Games Tonight

Illinois at Chicago.
Wisconsin at Northwestern.
Iowa at Indiana.
St. Louis at Drake.
Iowa Central at St. Ambrose.
Wilson at Morgan Park.
Iowa State at Kansas State.
Nebraska at Kansas.

The conference pacemakers, Wisconsin's Badgers, return to the basketball wars tonight in Evanston where they face Northwestern's Wildcats. Judged solely on the basis of current standings, Wisconsin apparently does not need to fear Northwestern.

This cursory statement also can be backed by Saturday's results when Wisconsin, warming up after semester examinations, whipped Butler university while Northwestern was losing to Notre Dame, thus adding this loss [Northwestern won the first game of the series last New Year's eve] to four conference defeats.

Wendland May Return.

Actually, however, Northwestern is not an indifferent team. In several respects it is better than the 1940 squad, and it seldom has been licked without a terrific battle. On the Evanston High school court, where Northwestern defeated Michigan for its only conference victory, the Wildcats will be a distinct threat to the budding ambitions of the Badgers led by the high scoring Gene Englund.

There is a chance also that Russ Wendland, sophomore guard who was hospitalized with influenza before the Irish game, may play briefly tonight. He will be released from Evanston hospital this morning. Al Kruger, by three field goals and a free throw when inserted into Northwestern's lineup at guard against Notre Dame, is a candidate for this position when Wendland is not in the game.

Iowa Invades Indiana.

Even if Wisconsin gets by Northwestern tonight and follows with a victory Saturday over Illinois, which has not rallied from the loss of two regulars by ineligibility, the Badgers still have major tests ahead, including battles with Purdue and Indiana. Tonight the Hoosiers entertain Iowa's Hawkeyes in Bloomington with every prospect of turning the Iowa road trip into a rout.

Iowa stumbled at Columbus, O., Saturday, losing to the Buckeyes, 49 to 44, for a second defeat in conference play and thus forfeiting the chance to enter tonight's game tied for second place.

Jay McCreary, forward who missed Indiana's last game because of a sprained wrist, has recovered and will be in the starting lineup against Iowa. Bob Menke, reserve center, will be shifted to the other forward.

Illinois' defeat by Minnesota, 50 to 38, sends it against Chicago on the Midway tonight merely with hope of salvaging a berth in the first division. Illinois now has won three and lost three games, and the defeats are consecutive. The Maroons may notch their first conference victory at Illinois' expense.

Purdue Plays Saturday.

Purdue and Minnesota, now tied for third place with four victories and two defeats each, do not play until Saturday. The Gophers' game at Indiana tops the five game program. Purdue goes to Ohio State and unless Capt. Bob Igney and Don Blanken, injured in the game with Chicago, are fit again, the Boilermakers will have trouble. They may lose anyway, for the defending champions' two defeats this year [Illinois and Wisconsin] have been away from home.

Illinois at Wisconsin, Michigan at Iowa, and Northwestern at Chicago completes the conference schedule next Saturday.

$50,000 WILL GET YOU AN INTEREST IN BOSTON BEES

Boston, Mass., Feb. 9 (AP).—If four or five more congenial folk will rally around him with $50,000 each, President Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees will organize a syndicate to buy control of that National league baseball club, he indicated today.

So far, Quinn has only two prospective syndicate members, Casey Stengel, his manager, and their mutual friend, Max C. Meyer, a Brooklyn manufacturer.

"This latest report about the Bees' sale is much too premature to discuss," Quinn explained. "Meyer is only one man and we need at least four others like him to purchase C. F. Adams' holdings, which represent about 70 per cent of the club's stock."

"Personally, I'd like to have Meyer buy the club himself, but I have discussed that with him many times and he has assured me he never will buy a ball club. He is willing, however, to make a substantial investment, provided Stengel and I do likewise."

As far as Quinn is concerned, the sale of the Bees is as far in the future as ever.

TAXES REDUCING PIONEERING IN NEW INDUSTRIES

Du Pont's President Issues Warning.

Altho industrial pioneering in new fields over the years has provided employment for millions, the incentive for risking large investments in new undertakings of uncertain success is being reduced as the result of the steep rates on excess profits adopted by congress last year.

W. S. Carpenter Jr., president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., made this assertion yesterday in issuing his annual report to stockholders of the vast chemical and munitions company from headquarters in Wilmington, Del.

Prefacing his remarks with the statement that high taxes are expected and must be borne willingly during this period of world turmoil, Carpenter declared that congress, in its efforts to capture a major part of possible large profits from the defense program, had unintentionally set up a new deterrent to industrial pioneering.

Barrier to Development.

He said that corporations earning more than $500,000 must pay 62 cents of each dollar's profit in taxes, leaving them 38 cents for investments in new facilities and other purposes. Carpenter termed this "an extreme discouragement, if not an almost insuperable obstacle, to the risking of capital in new industrial developments."

"And current forecasts of probable future tax legislation," he said, "suggest that even this relatively small incentive now left to new business ventures may be in danger of still further drastic reduction."

Carpenter advocated that "the laws for raising necessary revenues for the government shall be so designed as to avoid needless injury to our basic institutions. And in particular, it is of crucial importance that the door be not closed to new undertakings."

Problem for Future.

Recalling that recovery from the upheaval of the first world war had been accelerated by rapidly expanding automobile, electrical, radio, and chemical industries, all of which had their inception during periods of relatively low taxation, he questioned industry's ability, under existing tax laws, to absorb the man power which will be released when present defense activities are curtailed.

"Unless the trend of tax legislation is radically changed," he warned, "the opportunity for the development of similar new industries is being subjected to serious restriction."

Emphasizing his remarks with details of du Pont's own experiences in new industries, Carpenter said the company began the manufacture of dyestuffs in 1917, and in the first 18 years of this venture invested more than 43 million dollars before sufficient profits were earned to offset the accumulated operating losses. He gave other illustrations in pushing his demand that industry should be assured of a reasonable reward for initiative in establishing new businesses.

Reports on Nylon.

The report said that the manufacture of women's hosiery made from Nylon yarn, a du Pont product, approximated 35 million pairs during 1940, and that at the end of the year production was at the rate of 68 million pairs annually. Of the various other uses to which the yarn is being put, the report included fishing leaders, brushes, insulation, and parachute safety belts.

Carpenter said the company last year paid about $56,700,000 in direct taxes, exceeding all other classifications of expenditures except wages and purchases of raw materials.

The report listed 1940 net income of $86,945,173, equal to $7.23 a share on common stock, compared with 1939 net of $93,218,664, or $7.70 a share. A $10,000,000 deduction for a reserve against inventory depreciation, together with increased taxes, accounted for the lower income.

Growth of du Pont's Taxes

FIFTH IN SALES.

I have been planning to buy some common stock in the General Tire and Rubber company listed on the New York Stock exchange. Before I make any commitment I would like to have some data about the company.—W. H.

Answer: General Tire and Rubber company, Akron, O., ranks fifth in the domestic rubber industry in point of sales. Its business consists mainly of manufacturing tires for replacement and fleet markets. In recent years the company has attempted to offset the narrowing of replacement outlets by developing its mechanical rubber goods division.

The company's plants are operating at capacity as a result of business generated by defense activities. Need for additional facilities has led the company to start the construction of a 25 per cent expansion of its Akron plant.

Higher operating costs and somewhat lower selling prices contributed to a big shrinkage in earnings in the 1940 fiscal year. Net income was 72 per cent below the peak profit of 1939. The earnings record in recent fiscal years ended Nov. 30 follows:

	Net sales.	Net income	Earned per Com. share.
1936	$17,910,000	$1,291,011	$2.53
1937	21,893,000	808,913	1.24
1938	20,088,000	1,181,224	1.97
1939	24,049,000	2,137,918	3.77
1940	23,214,000	595,917	.35

Capitalization of the company comprises 23,751 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value and 526,847 shares of $5 par common stock.

Holders of the preferred stock are receiving regular quarterly dividends. On the common stock the company has paid 50 cents a share in each calendar year since 1937. Common dividends have been paid steadily from 1918 thru 1932 and were omitted from 1933 thru 1936. A payment of 50 cents will be made Feb. 28 to holders of record Feb. 18.

SURVIVORS' BENEFITS.

I would appreciate receiving your opinion as to what social security benefits would be paid in the following instance: A young man earned $175 a month as a machinist and paid all his social security taxes since 1937. He died last month, leaving his wife and 5 year old child.—G. N.

Answer: The widow would receive $25.35 a month, which is equal to three-fourths of the primary monthly benefit of $33.80 based on her husband's wage record. The child would get one-half of the primary benefit or $16.90 a month. The total monthly payment would be $42.25.

Forms for estimating old age and survivors' benefits under the social security program may be obtained by sending a stamped, addressed envelope to the Investors' Guide.

BOOST CHICAGO AS GREAT STYLE, APPAREL MART

Fashion Leaders Ask Support of Trade.

Chicago has the opportunity in 1941 to become the "great central market" in the women's apparel industry, Chicago fashion leaders asserted yesterday.

As the best program for speeding Chicago's progress in the field of women's fashions they gave these suggestions:

1. Organize a committee of recognized leaders in the apparel industry to promote the industry in attaining the recognition due Chicago from fashion circles.

2. Sponsor frequent style shows for giving recognition to established designers and encouraging new designers in their work.

Canvas This Market First.

3. Encourage Chicago store buyers and purchasers from other midwestern cities to canvass this market first before going elsewhere to fill inventory requirements.

4. Take the lead in a movement to revise copyright laws for a better protection of new designs and styles.

Unlike 20 years ago when large stores obtained their full year's stock at one time, many leading women's apparel retailers now change inventories as often as once a month because of rapidly changing styles, fashion leaders disclosed. This fact, they said, places Chicago in a better position as the central market because stores can send buyers to a closer market and eliminate the expense of frequent trips to New York City.

More Style Shows Proposed.

Frequent style shows were proposed as a means for building Chicago's prestige in the minds of midwestern buyers as well as the public. These shows, it was said, could be sponsored by fashion groups in cooperation with such organizations as the Association of Commerce, the State Street council, the Michigan Avenue association, the Style Creators, and the Merchandise Mart.

The fashion show sponsored last year by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE was cited as an example of what can be done in recognizing and rewarding new designers.

Percy Wilson, managing director of the Merchandise Mart, said that Chicago can help most by further recognizing its own wholesalers.

Chicago Has All Styles.

"The wide variety of women's apparel products offered by our own wholesalers is still more appreciated by out-of-town buyers than by our local retail stores," he said. "Many buyers still cling to the old habit, grown out of the early geography of a past age of our national facilities, by which millions of unnecessary dollars each year are spent to send buyers to New York and elsewhere."

"There is today on sale in Chicago nearly every latest style and article of the women's apparel industry that is made anywhere in the country."

Discussing the need for more stringent copyright laws, fashion interests said that new designs in this country can be stolen merely by slight alterations.

Besides New York City, Chicago's other competitor in the fashion field is Hollywood, Cal., said to be a growing center, especially in sport clothing.

KROGER GROCERY 1940 NET PROFIT DIPS 17 PER CENT

Kroger Grocery and Baking company yesterday reported net income for 1940 was $4,607,126, or $2.51 a share, a decrease of 17 per cent from earnings of $5,514,597 in 1939. Last year's figure was equal to $3.02 per share.

Sales for 1940 were 6 per cent above 1939—$258,115,025, against $243,356,605.

Employés shared $787,183 under the firm's profit distribution plan.

YEAR'S RETAIL SALES INCREASE TO 45½ BILLIONS

Fall Only 6 Per Cent Under 1929 Peak.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—The commerce department said today that Americans bought $45,500,000,000 of goods at retail last year, 8.3 per cent more than in 1939, and only 6 per cent short of the 1929 peak.

The report said that allowing for a population increase and decline in living costs "the 1940 per capita distribution of merchandise in physical terms surpassed that of 1929 by a sizable margin."

Sales held at the relatively high level of the final 1939 quarter during the first six months, then swung upward, expanding about 16 per cent in the fourth quarter. This year-end surge was described as "a reflection of the substantial increase in employment and income generated by the defense program."

Other Agencies Report.

Three other federal agencies likewise published reports indicative of the general business upswing in the last year.

The social security board said that state employment offices placed 3,200,000 workers in private jobs in 1940, the largest number in any year since the service began in 1933. In addition there were 557,000 placements in public jobs.

The Federal Deposit Insurance corporation reported that 1940 had fewer bank failures or forced mergers than any year since 1935. It said that 43 banks either closed outright or were merged with corporation financial aid in order to save them from closing in 1940. The total was 60 in 1939, 74 in 1938, 75 in 1937, 69 in 1936, and 25 in 1935. Officials said the reason for few failures in 1934 and 1935 was the weeding out of weak banks during the 1933 banking holiday.

Factory Spending Large.

The federal reserve board said the defense program boosted total factory and factory equipment expenditures to $22,123,000,000, the highest level since 1929. It estimated that 1940 factory and equipment expenditures represented a $3,000,000,000 gain over 1939, but lacked a similar amount of equaling 1929.

Estimates prepared by George Terborgh, board economist, included $8,307,000,000 of plant spending and $13,816,000,000 of equipment expenditures last year, compared with $7,815,000,000 for plant and $11,206,000,000 for equipment the preceding year.

The biggest gains were due to public construction, and private plant outlays were only 59 per cent of 1929 levels.

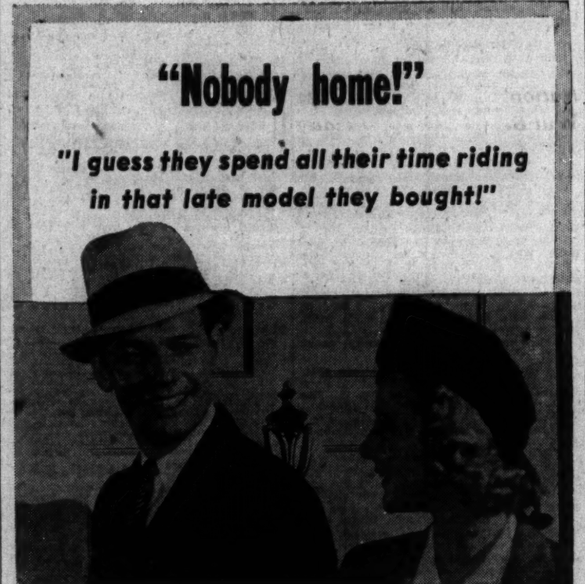
"THANKS FOR YOUR TIP"

"As a result, we refurnished our entire office at low cost"

WOULD you smarten up your office or store if you were able to buy everything needed at low cost? Then begin to follow the Office Equipment and Devices and Store and Bar Fixtures columns in the Tribune want ad section. There you will find money-saving offers of modern desks, store fixtures, chairs, partitions, calculating machines, files, and other equipment.

"Nobody home!"

"I guess they spend all their time riding in that late model they bought!"



WOULD you like a new thrill in motoring? Then trade in your present car on a late model used one! The appearance, riding qualities and performance of these late models are all that you could wish. Turn to the Used Automobiles for Sale columns in the Tribune want ad section for a review of today's best values. Remember, prices are low, terms are generous, and your present car may be the only down payment required!

Because want ad users get better results, they place more want advertising in the Tribune than they place in all other Chicago newspapers combined.
